MERRY CHRISTMAS — City workers completed installation of Christmas decorations Wednesday afternoon, stringing the final strand on the east side of Court St. at Main St. Though the day was cold and windy, workers complained most motorists failed to heed their efforts and kept them warm by forcing them to run from the paths of their cars.

City Decorates For St. Nick's Visit Today

Roundtown has taken on a festive holiday air in honor of Santa's arrival at 2 p.m. today. During the week, workers have installed Christmas lights, green garlands and traditional holiday decorations as Circleville prepares for the upcoming holiday season.

This year decorations are the responsibility of the Jaycees. They have taken over the duties which were performed in the past by the late Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown, who headed a Christmas decoration committee of downtown merchants.

The lights, going up Tuesday and Wednesday, along with garlands of greenery, decorate the Court and Main St. intersection. They were installed by employees of a local electric business. Jaycee members began their duties by draping the main intersection poles in silver wrap and hanging the wreaths, green with large red stars in the middle, on the four corners.

Holiday Traffic Toll Reaches 188

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The nation's Thanksgiving traffic death toll reached 188 today.

Snow, drizzle or fog plagued motorists in scattered areas of the nation's midsection, but skies cleared in the Northeast following Thursday's traffic-snarling snowstorm.

The count of traffic deaths began at 6 p.m. local time Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday.

Jersey Prison Riot Over; Grievances To Be Heard

Israelis Told War Could Be Near

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Premier Golda Meir has told Israelis they must "live with the possibility of renewed war" in the Middle East.

Addressing a meeting in Tel Aviv Thursday of her Labor party, Mrs. Meir also rebuked the United States for not delivering more Phantom jet fighter-bombers at a time when Arabs talk of war.

If war erupts, "we will win, but we will have to pay a price, and the victory will cost much more in human lives than if we had the planes," she said.

"How is it possible that the friends of Israel can assume such a dreadful responsibility?"

She promised the party members that "what I tell you now, I will tell Mr. Nixon." The Israeli premier is scheduled to meet with President Nixon next week in a major effort to get Washington to resume supplies of warplanes.

Referring to a declaration by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that "Egypt's decision is war," Mrs. Meir said: "We can't decide that Sadat will not make war. We have to accept that he said he would make war."

She assailed the contention that the Soviet Union was restraining Egypt from embarking on what Sadat says would be a war for liberation of the Sinai Desert captured in the 1967 war. "What sort of restraint is this, when the Soviet Union gives Sadat everything he needs to make war?"

The Labor party central committee then resolved to back the government's refusal to commit itself to troop withdrawal from any occupied Arab land, and it reaffirmed Israel's readiness "for unconditional negotiations for peace."

In Cairo, Egypt's chief of staff, Gen. Saad el Shazli said that 13 Arab nations had agreed at a military conference to wage war against Israel.

Shzli told newsmen after the conference that all "delegates voiced full desire to participate in the battle, with each country contributing what it can afford."

Attending the meeting were representatives from Algeria, Bahrain, Egypt, Iraq, Jordan, Kuwait, Lebanon, Libya, Morocco, Saudi Arabia, South Yemen, Sudan and Syria.

The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram, reported that Sadat has sent a message to President Nixon warning him against carrying out what the paper described as U.S. intentions to supply Israel with long-range Lance missiles.

IRS Workers Inundated By Wage-Price Questions

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — What was it like for the Internal Revenue Service when President Nixon assigned it the job as answer man for his wage and price controls?

"It was like someone telling me to go in and quarterback the Baltimore Colts," said Hardy Root, an IRS public relations man in the Greensboro office.

Root was standing in the Centaphone complex of the IRS office where tax service representatives (TSRs) were answering hundreds of telephone calls over toll-free lines from North Carolinians who were confused about the controls.

A dozen TSRs on shift worked furiously to answer complex inquiries about a huge government program that no one with the IRS knew very much about a few weeks ago.

"It got to the point where we just had to tell them we didn't know the answer," said one of the TSRs, Lois McGee. "But we've been told not to do that anymore. We tell them we don't have a ruling on that yet."

Completing another answer to a caller, she turned in her chair and said, "There's just so much. It makes you feel kind of stupid when you can't answer their questions sometimes. You can hear them chuckling over the phone like they're saying, 'Well, what did you expect from the government?'"

She pushed a button for another incoming call. "IRS, Mrs. McGee. Can I help you please? Uh-huh. Yes. I see. Were they in effect before Aug. 12? Sir, let me have some call from my technical branch call you back. I'm sorry. We'll try to get to you as soon as we can."

The technical division answers questions the TSRs can't handle. If the technical division can't answer them, they go to the regional office in Atlanta, and if they can't be handled there, they go to Washington. "You might say this is like General Motors or some big corporation, though, going into operation with a program without its usual two years or so of planning," said Carroll Cooper, head of the Greensboro office.

The wage and price controls caught Cooper as much by surprise as it did the public because of the secrecy in which the program was developed, to insure no one could raise prices before the freeze started Aug. 15.

"We only found out a few days after the freeze that we would be handling it," he said. "Really, it's working pretty well," Cooper said, managing a weak smile, "considering the complications."

South Vietnamese Offensive In Cambodia Gains Speed

SAIGON (AP) — A 25,000-man South Vietnamese offensive into eastern Cambodia picked up momentum in its fifth day today with a ranger thrust into the rubber plantation of Mimot. Only light contact was reported.

It marked the first time in six months that South Vietnamese forces had swept into Mimot, a key North Vietnamese staging area for thrusts toward Saigon. It is 25 miles southwest of Snuol, from which South Vietnamese forces were driven in May with more than 500 casualties.

Other government troops were poised along the border apparently ready for similar thrusts into Snuol itself.

It appeared that North Vietnamese forces from the 5th and 7th divisions, who normally operate around Mimot, had pulled back.

They had plenty of advance warning since the South Vietnamese announced two days ago that Mimot and Snuol would be targets of the offensive.

Despite the advance announcement, a senior South Vietnamese field commander declared: "We believe the North Vietnamese are trying to regroup and figure out what our targets are. We expect big fighting within the next five to seven days."

Field reports said that the entire offensive was being conducted with minimum U.S. helicopter support. There are no American helicopters flying South Vietnamese troops across the border, but they are flying reconnaissance and gunship support.

The U.S. Command in Saigon disclosed that in the past two days, American helicopters had flown 320 missions in eastern Cambodia in support of the South Vietnamese. A spokesman said most of these were gunship missions.

There has been no significant contact since the drive began last Monday. The South Vietnamese have moved slowly and cautiously and are now operating as deep as 30 miles from their border.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — James and Phyllis Darling of Toledo, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Haller of Baker, Ore., have captured the four-session Swiss team title in the American Contract Bridge League's fall national championships.

They led a field of 180 teams by capturing 10 of a possible 12 matches.

Hostages Freed After Newsmen Hear Inmates

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — Officials are again in control of Rahway State Prison after reaching a peaceful agreement with 500 rebellious inmates who held two wings of the maximum security prison for 24 hours.

The prisoners released their remaining five hostages on Thanksgiving night in return for a promise of no reprisals against them. They also were permitted to air their grievances to three newsmen who entered the prison.

Officials pledged full negotiations on the grievances.

A team of eight attorneys headed by State Public Defender Stanley C. Van Ness planned to meet with prisoners this morning.

Under the agreement, the inmates were returned to their cells as fellow prisoners watched to ensure against possible reprisals.

The prisoners' demands included better medical care, better food, prompter parole hearings and an end to alleged racism by white officers.

Gov. William T. Cahill, who sought the release of the hostages, told newsmen, "I can't relate Allica to this situation. Each man that is confronted with the situation has to make the best decision under the circumstances."

Lima State Arraignments Scheduled

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Thirty-one persons indicted in the Lima State Hospital grand jury probe were scheduled for arraignment today, on charges ranging from torture to sodomy.

At least 28 of them, who were hospital employees until their dismissal Wednesday, planned to enter innocent pleas.

Their attorney, Joseph Dapora, said he also would file three motions in Allen County Common Pleas Court—a request for a bill of particulars, another to impound hospital records of patients who were the alleged victims and a third for a court-appointed master commissioner to preserve the records.

The 28 and three former hospital employees were indicted on 60 counts. They were free on bonds of from $1,000 to $3,000.

Members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents about a third of the hospital employees, planned to wear black ribbons today to protest the dismissals.

The union said it would do this rather than disrupt hospital operations with a strike or sick-out.

"To us, if not to some who appear to have forgotten it, any person is presumed innocent until proven guilty, and to all of us, the welfare of the patients remains first," the union said.

Seek Skyjacker; Bailed Out Of Jet With Cash

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A hijacker who apparently knew precisely what he wanted to do and how to do it has vanished after bailing out of a commandeered jet airliner with $200,000.

The pilot of the Northwest Airlines Boeing 727 said he believed the hijacker "took leave of us" in the Woodland, Wash., area 25 miles north of here as the plane flew low and slow from Seattle to Reno, Nev., en route to the man's demanded destination, Mexico.

Helicopters and airplanes crisscrossed over the brushy and timbered foothills of the Cascade Mountains most of Thursday before the weather closed in. The hunt resumes today.

Authorities held out little hope, however, that the hijacker would be found soon.

"He's probably long gone," a Clark County, Wash., sheriff's deputy said.

It was the first time an aircraft hijacker had used a parachute to make his escape and it was the largest sum of money an air pirate had ever escaped with in the United States.

Described as a tall, slim man in his mid 40s, the hijacker took control of the three-engine jetliner Wednesday as it flew from Portland to Seattle on the last leg of a flight originating in Washington, D.C.

He told a stewardess he had a bomb and that he wanted to go to Mexico. He also demanded four parachutes and $200,000.

The FBI said he had used the name D. B. Cooper when he boarded the plane in Portland.

"That's the name he used when he bought his ticket," an FBI agent said. "But he's probably no more D. B. Cooper than I am."

When the parachutes and the cash were delivered to him at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, he allowed the 36 other passengers and two stewardesses to disembark. The pilot, Capt. William Scott, and three other crew members were ordered to remain aboard.

Airborne for a refueling at Reno, the hijacker ordered Scott to fly no higher than 10,000 feet, with flaps and landing gear down to keep the airliner's speed at about 200 miles per hour.

He also directed that the rear exit door of the 727 be left open, with the stairs extended as they would be in taking on or discharging passengers on the ground.

And somewhere between Seattle and Reno he departed. Also gone were the $200,000 and two of the four parachutes he had been given.

Scott said during the flight that indicator lights in the cockpit showed the rear stairwell was being operated.

Airline and Boeing officials explained that the low flight would permit the aircraft to fly with the rear door open without cabin pressurization.

"It would be a very safe drop," Boeing's John Wheeler said of a parachute jump from the rear door. "He'd be away from the flaps and other engines and go straight down."

The 727 is one of the few commercial aircraft models with an exit at its extreme rear, under the tail.

Two of the 'chutes delivered to the hijacker were military types and two were sport parachutes.

The military 'chutes normally operate with a static line which rips them open almost immediately after the jumper leaves his aircraft. The sports 'chutes permit a free fall until the jumper himself decides to release them.

Santa Letters Should Be Mailed Early

In an effort to assist Santa Claus in his job this year, the Herald volunteered to serve as an agent and accept letters from all youngsters in this area who would like to let the old man know what they would be delighted to find under the Christmas tree this year.

While last year, an arrangement was made to return letters to all youngsters who wrote in early, Santa found that the project just got out of hand, expanding to much more of a response than expected. The Herald is now accepting letters to Santa Claus which we will begin printing next week. But there will be no letters returned to little writers from the North Pole. Youngsters can rest assured, however, that the daily copies of the Herald in which Santa Letters appear will be sent by special delivery to the frozen northland and that Santa will have the list to work with when packing his sleigh Christmas Eve.

But, to make sure your letter gets in one of the issues of the newspaper before Dec. 23, it must be mailed or delivered to the Herald office by Dec. 17 at the latest.

Dock Strike Suits Filed

Back-To-Work Injunctions Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said it will file suit today in 12 East and Gulf Coast port cities to force 45,000 striking dock workers to return to their jobs under the Taft-Hartley Act.

The department said the primary suit against the International Longshoremen's Union will be filed in a New York court. But, since employers refused to be considered as a single group, suits for an 80-day injunction against the strike will have to be sought in other port cities as well.

The other cities where suits are expected to be filed later today or on Saturday include Boston, Philadelphia, Alexandria, Va., Baltimore, Augusta, Miami, Mobile, Houston, Providence, R.I., Portland, Maine.

The name of the 12th city in which a suit will be filed was not immediately available.

The department acted on an order by President Nixon. In a letter Thursday from the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., Nixon ordered Atty. Gen. John Mitchell to seek an injunction against the 57-day strike under provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act.

"The necessary papers are being prepared," a Justice Department spokesman said following the White House announcement. "The civil division undoubtedly expected something like this. We will be ready to move tomorrow (Friday)."

Nixon acted after a special board of inquiry, reconvened at his request, reported there was little chance of a quick settlement of the strike. The International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) and shipping industry representatives.

Their attorney, Joseph Dapora, said he also would file three motions in Allen County Common Pleas Court—a request for a bill of particulars, another to impound hospital records of patients who were the alleged victims and a third for a court-appointed master commissioner to preserve the records.

The 28 and three former hospital employees were indicted on 60 counts. They were free on bonds of from $1,000 to $3,000.

Members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which represents about a third of the hospital employees, planned to wear black ribbons today to protest the dismissals.

The union said it would do this rather than disrupt hospital operations with a strike or sick-out.

"To us, if not to some who appear to have forgotten it, any person is presumed innocent until proven guilty, and to all of us, the welfare of the patients remains first," the union said.

Sheriff's Deputies Probe Six Holiday Injury Accidents

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated six injury accidents over the Thanksgiving Holidays.

Howard L. Draise, 19, Route 1, Williamsport, suffered confusion to his chest after he fell asleep while driving his car on Route 104 at the intersection of Fox Rd., 9:45 p.m. Thursday.

His car went off the right berm and slid 100 feet before hitting an embankment.

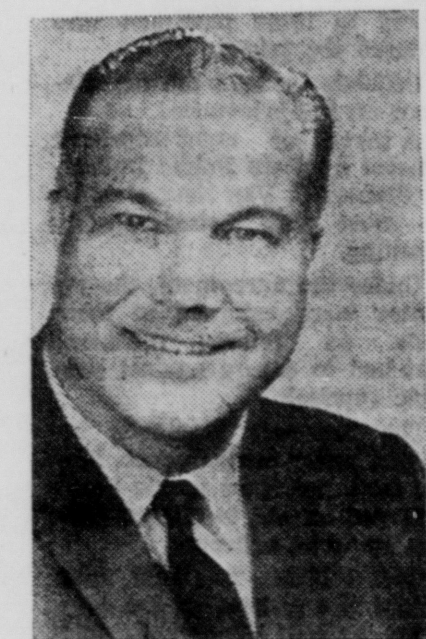

William H. Burgett, 24, Derby, sustained abrasions and contusions to both knees and his left elbow and a possible fractured nose, when he lost control of his automobile on the Harrisburg-Darbyville Rd. 10:50 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Sheriff's Deputy Lowell Ferguson, Burgett lost control of his car in a curve that had been freshly sanded.

Timmy McCune, 20, Route 4, Logan, and a passenger in his car, Dixie Anderson, 18, Orient, both complained of cervical strain following a hit-skip accident 4:10 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Circleville-Florence Chapel Rd. and Circleville-Commercial Point Rds.

According to McCune, he was

Gilligan's Plan Includes Orient State Support

Governor John J. Gilligan, announced Thursday that a $420,565,660 capital improvements plan for the current two years has been submitted to the General Assembly.

Gilligan and State Representative Myrl Shoemaker said that the $420 million capital improvements plan includes $3,164,827 for Pickaway County. The money is earmarked for the Orient State Institution under the auspices of Mental Hygiene and Correction.

Joining in the announcement, were House Democratic Floor Leader A. G. Lancione and Senate Democratic Floor Leader Anthony O. Calabrese.

The plan covers construction of new facilities and rehabilitation of existing facilities in virtually every field of state endeavor.

The Governor, in revealing the plan, said all requests for new facilities had not been fulfilled, but that the plan was drawn on the basis of meeting minimum needs of state departments.

Included in the plan are many projects not included in the Republican plan submitted earlier this session, notably in the field of environmental protection. Some items in the Republican plan are omitted from the administration plan.

Finance Director Harold A. Hovey said the Republican plan included some projects which have actually already been paid for, and others which were never fully funded.

Gilligan said the bill calls for expenditures of $258.6 for institutions of higher education, $87.4 million for mental health and corrections facilities and $25.5 million for Natural Resources, including $6 million for a proposed lodge in Mohican State Park.

Environmental requests in the administration plan include $6.6 million for the Ohio Water Development Authority and $7.5 million for pollution control facilities at mental health installations.

Students OK Booze, Demos, Heavy Snow Shun Pot, Survey Indicates

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of high school student leaders indicates the young people are substituting booze for pot, like Democrats and think mom and pop are on target with discipline.

As for premarital sexual experience, it was maybe yes, maybe no, with 35 per cent of the respondents saying absolutely no, 15 per cent ducking the question and 50 per cent saying yes under a variety of conditions.

The survey, conducted for the Merit Publishing Co., Northfield, Ill., consisted of 23,000 replies from students in 18,000 of the nation's 23,000 public private and parochial high schools. The publishing company said that the replies were not a reflection of today's average student but of the "opinions of student leaders and high-achievers."

Ninety-six per cent of the students surveyed go onto college and nearly 96 per cent have better than a B-grade average.

Landing on the moon, the 18-year-old vote and the attack on pollution were three things students were proud of, and their top priorities included ending the Southeast Asian war, eliminating pollution and the continuing war on poverty.

Politically, 76 per cent of the young leaders said they believed political change could be brought about within the established system.

In several sample ballots, pitting President Nixon against Senators Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., George McGovern, D-S.D., and Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the President beat only Humphrey 44 per cent to 38 per cent. Muskie scored highest over the President 57 per cent to 28 per cent.

Although well over 90 per cent said they had never used the hard drugs and 76 per cent had not used marijuana, 76 per cent said all the drugs were readily available.

Alcohol gets more attention from this student segment, the survey showed. Only 34 per cent of the students said they never drank beer, 26 per cent hadn't tried wine and 39 per cent had shunned hard liquor. Usage of all three ranged from once or twice to daily, although there were no daily hard liquor drinkers.

3 Children Hurt As Taxi Crashes Into Bedroom

CINCINNATI (AP)—Three children were injured, one seriously, when a taxi cab crashed into a first floor bedroom of the Earl Vaught family today in which five children were sleeping.

Delta Vaught, 2, suffered serious head injuries when the vehicle pinned her against the wall.

Earl Vaught Jr., 13, and Julia, 4, were injured when they were pinned under the car in their Mount Auburn section home.

Police said cab driver Alvin Robinson, 45, who lived on the same Hillside street, lost control of his vehicle, jostled the curb and rammed the frame home. He was charged with reckless driving.

Drug Program Expansion Set By New Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials from 35 states have united to seek a coordinated federal-state campaign against drug abuse.

"Rather than having a lot of money here in Washington and seeking states to join in a competitive scramble for dollars, we believe the federal government must adopt a methodical approach to drug abuse that would involve the states," says Rayburn Hesse of Albany, N.Y.

Hesse, 36, is chairman of the National Association of State Drug Abuse Program Coordinators.

The organization, formed a week ago, has 35 members representing top government agencies from as many states. The association eventually hopes to include officials from all states.

Wilson Plan For Ireland Shot Down

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner poured cold water today on former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson's plan for peace in this embattled province.

Faulkner dismissed the basic point of Wilson's proposals: that one day there will be a united Ireland.

In his statement, Faulkner emphasized the determination of Northern Ireland's Protestant majority, encompassed in his ruling Unionist party, to remain an integral part of the United Kingdom and not to become a minority in a mainly Roman Catholic independent republic.

Wilson, leader of Britain's opposition Labor party, unfolded before the London Parliament Thursday a plan for a united Ireland as a starting point for talks to end the bloodshed here that has claimed 160 lives in 27 months.

British government ministers nodded approvingly as he outlined his plan—an indication they were ready to think in terms of ending Ireland's 50-year-old partition into Protestant-dominated north and mainly Catholic south.

Wilson urged talks in London, Belfast and Dublin, capital of the south, to see if a conference on Ireland's future could be arranged. If there was tripartite agreement, he suggested, a new constitution for the whole island could come into effect within 15 years from its signing.

Radiation Detected

MERCURY, Nev. (AP) — A nuclear device detonated 900 feet underground spewed into the atmosphere what was described by the Atomic Energy Commission as a small amount of radiation. The AEC said it was thousands of times less than the radiation a person would be exposed to while taking a regular chest X-ray.

The radiation—about 12 micro-roentgens—was detected by a tracker plane four hours after the 20-kiloton device was set off at the Nevada Test Site Wednesday afternoon, an AEC spokesman said.

The leak was not announced until Thursday because it was so small it had to be confirmed by laboratory tests, the spokesman said. A chest X-ray emits 50 milliroentgens.

The radiation was dissipating and does not present a danger to the public, he added.

The exact nature of Wednesday's test was undisclosed. It was the tenth reported this year.

Wilmington Girl Killed By Automobile

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP) — Julianne Syphrit, 11, of Wilmington, Ohio, died at Providence Hospital in Holyoke Thursday of injuries received Wednesday night in Chicopee.

The girl, a former Chicopee resident, was struck by a car during a holiday visit with relatives.

Heavy Snow Inundates Eastern U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of motorists in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic states spent Thanksgiving Day in the homes of strangers or in their cars as record snowfalls halted traffic.

Snow nearly 2 feet deep covered New York's capital city, Albany. The state's 25,000 employees there were allowed to report to work late today so they could dig out.

The National Weather Service in New Hampshire called the storm in that state "the worst in 20 years." Up to 18 inches of snow fell on the area.

Mrs. Ralph Lawrence of Franklin, N.H., planned to have 17 guests for dinner. But when they were unable to make the trip from New York, she invited everyone in the neighborhood to her home for turkey.

State police at Milford, Pa., housed more than 100 persons who were stranded in snow-bound cars after a storm dumped 16 inches of snow on that area.

Troopers rounded up food for the hungry travelers.

"They're eating hot dogs and bologna sandwiches, but it tastes like turkey to them," a state trooper said.

Trooper John Seleski trudged a mile through the snow to reach a stranded car on Interstate 80, then helped the expectant mother to deliver her baby. Both the mother and baby girl were reported doing fine although they were trapped in the car several more hours.

Maryland State Police reported that 1,800 to 2,500 vehicles were stranded overnight in snow up to 10 inches deep on Interstate 70 between Frederick and Hagerstown.

The highway, a major artery linking Maryland, western Pennsylvania and the turnpike system toward Chicago, was carrying heavy holiday traffic when a tractor-trailer truck jackknifed early Thursday in the westbound lane on South Mountain north of Frederick.

Boston, Cape Cod and most of Rhode Island escaped the snow, but 3 inches of rain caused minor flooding on main roads. Many motorists waded through knee-deep floods to get help.

Meanwhile, snow spread from the Dakotas to the Upper Great Lakes. Rain soaked the Pacific Northwest and an area from the Plains to the Mississippi Valley.

Mild weather was the rule in Florida and southern Texas.

Crashes Kill 4 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Traffic deaths were few in Ohio during the early part of the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, but safety officials warned Friday that peak travel periods are still to come.

At least four fatalities have been recorded.

The dead:
WEDNESDAY NIGHT
CHILlicothe — Robert Nevill, 19, of Greenfield, in a five-car crash in Chillicothe.

THURSDAY
CINCINNATI — Roy Houpp, 30, of Newport, Ky., when his car hit a concrete divider at a downtown intersection.
CLEVELAND — Martin Crook, 18, of Cleveland, when his car ran off a park road in Cleveland.

FRIDAY
MARIETTA — Teresa Callahan, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Callahan of Beverly, was killed when her parents' car collided with a coal truck on U. S. 50A about 10 miles

Sheriff's Deputies Probe Six Holiday Injury Accidents

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated six injury accidents over the Thanksgiving Holidays.

Howard L. Draise, 19, Route 1, Williamsport, suffered contusions to his chest after he fell asleep while driving his car on Route 104 at the intersection of Fox Rd., 9:45 p.m. Thursday.

His car went off the right berm and slid 100 feet before hitting an embankment.

William H. Burgett, 24, Derby, sustained abrasions and contusions to both knees and his left elbow and a possible fractured nose, when he lost control of his automobile on the Harrisburg-Darbyville Rd. 10:50 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Sheriff's Deputy Lowell Ferguson, Burgett lost control of his car in a curve that had been freshly sanded.

Timmy McCune, 20, Route 4, Logan, and a passenger in his car, Dixie Anderson, 18, Orient, both complained of cervical strain following a hit-skip accident 4:10 p.m. Wednesday at the intersection of Circleville-Florence Chapel Rd. and Circleville-Commercial Point Rds.

According to McCune, he was stopped at a stop sign on the Circleville-Florence Chapel Road, when another car struck him from the rear.

He left to report the accident to the Sheriff's Department, and when he returned to the scene, found the other car gone.

John A. Cope, 34, Route 2, Williamsport, and Jimmy Mowery, 21, Litchfield, received injuries when their cars collided at the intersections of Routes 104 and 56 11:50 a.m. Wednesday.

According to Deputy John Bost, Cope was northbound on Route 104, when Mowery pulled from Route 56, in front of him.

Mowery was charged with failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

William Justice, 19, Columbus, is in the Pickaway County Jail following his arrest by Deputy Lowell Ferguson for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of an intoxicant.

Ferguson cited Justice after his investigation of a one car accident on Route 56, 2:25 a.m. Friday.

According to the report, Justice ran off the road and into an adjacent ditch.

He appeared before acting Municipal Court Judge Harry Margulis Friday morning and had his case continued until Monday.

Seven Tried Wednesday In Court

Wednesday morning, seven persons came to trial in Common Pleas Court for various charges ranging from burglary to violation of probation.

Probation was revoked for Willard Kerns, cited for failure to provide. He was sentenced to 1-20 years in Mansfield Reformatory.

An attorney representing Marvin Garrison, charged by Highway Patrol for carrying a concealed weapon, accepted the $50 fine levied by Judge William Ammer.

A local man, Melvin Thompson, had his probation extended for two years for the attempted break-in at Gourmet Corners. He was placed under the supervision of the Adult Parole Authority in Columbus.

Indicted in January, 1971, by the grand jury for indecent exposure, Norman Fields appeared Wednesday to enter a guilty plea. His case was referred to the probation department for a pre-sentence report.

Pre-sentence reports were also ordered for George Hettlinger and Howard Jordan, two Yellowbud residents who were picked up in connection with several burglaries in the area including the A & P. Both entered guilty pleas on a bill of information, waiving their right to a grand jury hearing of the charges.

A Chillicothe man, Danny Moore, who was arrested recently with drugs and prescription forms from the office of Dr. Robert Sliwinski in Ashville, made an appearance Wednesday morning. Moore, 24, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny. His case was continued pending completion of a pre-sentence report.

U.S. Records Another Big Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recorded its largest trade deficit with other countries in October since World War II, the Commerce Department reported today.

The department said the country imported goods worth $821.4 million more than it exported during the month.

That figure compared with a $265.4-million surplus recorded in September.

A Commerce Department spokesman attributed the huge deficit to the East and West Coast dock strikes. He said many East Coast shippers anticipated the walkout by shipping heavily in September.

On the West Coast, President Nixon invoked the Taft-Hartley law ordering dock workers back to their jobs during October.

The spokesman said many importing firms were forced to unload goods in heavy volume before they could resume exports, another factor in the trade deficit.

The Commerce Department began compiling seasonally adjusted figures in 1948, the last year in which a fair comparison could be made.

Although well over 90 per cent said they had never used the hard drugs and 76 per cent had not used marijuana, 76 per cent said all the drugs were readily available.

Alcohol gets more attention from this student segment, the survey showed. Only 34 per cent of the students said they never drank beer, 26 per cent hadn't tried wine and 39 per cent had shunned hard liquor. Usage of all three ranged from once or twice to daily, although there were no daily hard liquor drinkers.

3 Children Hurt As Taxi Crashes Into Bedroom

CINCINNATI (AP) — Three children were injured, one seriously, when a taxi cab crashed into a first floor bedroom of the Earl Vaught family today in which five children were sleeping.

Delta Vaught, 2, suffered serious head injuries when the vehicle pinned her against the wall.

Earl Vaught Jr., 13, and Julia, 4, were injured when they were pinned under the car in their Mount Auburn section home.

Police said cab driver Alvin Robinson, 45, who lived on the same Hillside street, lost control of his vehicle, jumped the curb and rammed the frame home. He was charged with reckless driving.

Drug Program Expansion Set By New Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials from 35 states have united to seek a coordinated federal-state campaign against drug abuse.

"Rather than having a lot of money here in Washington and seeking states to join in a competitive scramble for dollars, we believe the federal government must adopt a methodical approach to drug abuse that would involve the states," says Rayburn Hesse of Albany, N.Y. Hesse, 36, is chairman of the National Association of State Drug Abuse Program Coordinators.

The organization, formed a week ago, has 35 members representing top government agencies from as many states. The association eventually hopes to include officials from all states.

Heavy Snow Inundates Eastern U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of motorists in the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic states spent Thanksgiving Day in the homes of strangers or in their cars as record snowfalls halted traffic.

Snow nearly 2 feet deep covered New York's capital city, Albany. The state's 25,000 employees were allowed to report to work late today so they could dig out.

The National Weather Service in New Hampshire called the storm in that state "the worst in 20 years." Up to 18 inches of snow fell on the area.

Mrs. Ralph Lawrence of Franklin, N.H., planned to have 17 guests for dinner. But when they were unable to make the trip from New York, she invited everyone in the neighborhood to her home for turkey.

State police at Milford, Pa., housed more than 100 persons who were stranded in snow-bound cars after a storm dumped 16 inches of snow on that area.

Troopers rounded up food for the hungry travelers.

"They're eating hot dogs and bologna sandwiches, but it tastes like turkey to them," a state trooper said.

Trooper John Seleski trudged a mile through the snow to reach a stranded car on Interstate 80, then helped the expectant mother to deliver her baby. Both the mother and baby girl were reported doing fine although they were trapped in the car several more hours.

Maryland State Police reported that 1,800 to 2,500 vehicles were stranded overnight in snow up to 10 inches deep on Interstate 70 between Frederick and Hagerstown.

The highway, a major artery linking Maryland, western Pennsylvania and the turnpike system toward Chicago, was carrying heavy holiday traffic when a tractor-trailer truck jackknifed early Thursday in the westbound lane on South Mountain north of Frederick.

Boston, Cape Cod and most of Rhode Island escaped the snow, but 3 inches of rain caused minor flooding on main roads. Many motorists waded through knee-deep floods to get help.

Meanwhile, snow spread from the Dakotas to the Upper Great Lakes. Rain soaked the Pacific Northwest and an area from the Plains to the Mississippi Valley.

Mild weather was the rule in Florida and southern Texas.

Crashes Kill 4 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic deaths were few in Ohio during the early part of the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, but safety officials warned Friday that peak travel periods are still to come.

At least four fatalities have been recorded.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT
CHILLICOTHE — Robert Nevill, 19, of Greenfield, in a five-car crash in Chillicothe.

THURSDAY
CINCINNATI — Roy Houp, 30, of Newport, Ky., when his car hit a concrete divider at a downtown intersection.

FRIDAY
MARIETTA — Teresa Callahan, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Callahan of Beverly, was killed when her parents' car collided with a coal truck on U. S. 50A about 10 miles west of Marietta. The parents, the truck driver and two sisters and a brother were taken to a hospital for treatment.

Operation Rudolph Is Underway

Operation Rudolph, a local project sponsored by the Circleville Area Council and Pickaway County Community Council, is seeking help from citizens to make Christmas pleasant for many who, for one reason or another, might not otherwise enjoy the holiday.

Over 250 families were served last year due to the donations of Pickaway County residents.

Operation Rudolph's needs are toys, new or used, articles of clothing and volunteers. Toys and other donations may be deposited at the AME Church at 422 S. Pickaway St. between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily except Sunday.

Any donations by check should be made payable to Circleville Area Council, c/o Mrs. Dorothy Walker, treasurer, at 325 Long St., Circleville.

For other information, such as pickup, delivery at night, volunteer work and such, contact Mrs. Carolyn Thomas at 474-8693 or Mr. Robert Jones, 474-6598.

Last day for deposit will be Dec. 11. Packaging of gifts, requiring volunteer service, will be done Dec. 13 through 15. Operation Rudolph deliveries will be made beginning Dec. 20.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Let Youth Learn His Lesson

DEAR ABBY: When our son reached his 18th birthday, he announced that he was his own boss and could do as he pleased. He started skipping school, lying and staying out all night. We tried to talk to him, but it did no good. After six months of this, we told him to either abide by our rules or find another place to sleep, which is all he ever came home for anyway.

He promptly packed up and left. Since then he has quit school, wrecked his car, bummed around and picked up odd jobs here and there.

Recently, my parents who live right next door, have been providing our son with food, shelter, and pocket money. Their door is left open all night, and if he doesn't come home, no questions are asked. We know they love him, and think they are helping him. We love him, too, but feel they are hurting him. Can we demand that they withdraw their help?

3 Children Are Killed In Blaze

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — The three small children of Mr. and Mrs. John Freeman died Thursday night when flames engulfed their southern Muskingum County farm home while the parents were milking cows in the barn.

The children, Emma, 4, Earl, 2½, and Anna, 7 months, were trapped in an upstairs bedroom.

The Freemans told authorities they found the house in flames when they returned from the barn about 75 feet away. They said they were unable to enter the house.

Firemen summoned from nearby Roseville also were not able to reach the youngsters.

The home is located about midway between Roseville and Cannelville along Goose Creek Road.

Cause of the fire was not determined officially, but it was learned the house was heated by coal-burning stoves.

and $25.5 million for natural resources, including $6 million for the proposed Mohican State Park Lodge.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a "kissing bug." He has to kiss me hello, goodbye, good morning, good night. You name it, he has a kiss for it, no matter where we are.

Last Friday I was in the beauty shop getting a permanent and my husband stopped in to leave me some money, and before he left he put his face in the shampoo bowl to kiss me goodbye! I felt so foolish. Even on street corners if we are going our separate ways for an hour, he has to kiss me goodbye.

What makes a man want to kiss so much? He can't possibly get anything out of those little token pecks. Or can he?

DEAR KISSED: Are you bragging or complaining? A kiss is a statement. It says, "I like you" or "I love you." It's a physical expression of approval or affection. The time to write a Dear Abby letter is when he STOPS kissing you.

DEAR ABBY: At a wedding reception, my husband and I were dancing together when this lady, a total stranger, came on the dance floor and tapped ME on the shoulder, indicating that she wanted to dance with my husband.

My husband was quite surprised, but he took his arms from around me and proceeded to dance with HER, leaving me stranded on the dance floor. Not knowing which way to turn, I then went to sit with friends.

I felt very humiliated to think that I was cast aside for a complete stranger. My husband had never seen that lady before!

When we discussed it at home later my husband said he couldn't understand why I was so upset. He said he danced with her to avoid making a scene on the dance floor.

Abby, what do you think should have been done in that situation? Wasn't that woman entirely out of line?

LEFT STANDING

DEAR LEFT: The woman was indeed out of line. But oftentimes when an unexpected situation arises, we are so astonished we act on the impulse, which is probably what your husband did. I doubt the situation will arise again.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ROCKY MARRIAGE IN S.F.": No, I don't think agreeing to "swing" will help. It's not a means to an end, it's the beginning of the end.

Improvement Bills Eyed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House-passed $239.3 million capital improvements bill is expected to be considered jointly in the Senate with Gov. John Gilligan's $425.5 million package.

Gilligan submitted his bill to the legislature Wednesday, just two days after the House acted on a measure it initiated after waiting four months for the administration plan.

Spokesmen in the lower chamber said they went ahead with a bill of their own to avoid the risk of leaving project under way without funds. Capital improvements plans are used to allocate money received from bond issues already approved by the voters.

Gilligan's proposal calls for expenditures of $258.6 million for institutions of higher education, $87.4 million for mental health and corrections facilities

IS YOUR FAMILY KEEPING YOU FROM HAVING A SPORTS CAR?

If you think a sports car isn't big enough for a man with a family, you haven't seen the Fiat 124 Sport Coupe. It has enough room inside for four 6-foot men. With baggage.

Yet it is a real sports car. Not just a sporty-looking car. It'll take you from zero to 70 in 14.6 secs., it has a DOHC engine, a five-speed gearbox and disc brakes on all four wheels.

It's not only the kind of car you really need when you're driving a family; it's the kind you've always wanted when you're by yourself.

Flu Warning

A flu warning was overdue, but it has now been issued. Customarily an epidemic is pointed to by some health organization in September or October. This year the news was late.

But the World Health Organization releases the information from Geneva that a mild epidemic of flu has been sweeping western Europe and is expected to continue westward. No deaths have been reported.

If this is the only warning of this sort found necessary this fall and winter, the circumstance will be unusual, to say the least. Frequently flu epidemics begin to appear in various global areas in the fall and spread in terrain covered or intensity during the winter.

The loss caused by these visitations in loss of work alone would be difficult to estimate. If all those who should stay home because they are afflicted would do so, many activities would grind to a halt.

It would be a grand achievement if medical science could discover a method of applying a permanent "freeze" to flu epidemics, with no variations permitted. But that probably is too much to expect, even in the present advanced state of medicine.

The World Health Organization is no doubt doing all that is possible at present — warn the world's population of such epidemics, their probable course and their severity.

No Coin Shortage

The Yuletide shopping season, already in full swing, will gain considerable additional momentum in the days ahead. And the banks appear to be well supplied with "change." Perhaps there will never again be a coin shortage such as appeared for several years in a row several years ago.

At that time stores ran out of change and banks had insufficient supplies to meet the demand. Today the opposite appears to be true. The government has a half billion, give or take a few, half dollars it would like the banks to take.

In some areas it is still hard to find many halves in the banks. And the Mint has been turning out coins of other denominations, including the successor to the silver dollar, in such profusion that a shortage couldn't develop. Or if it did, banks could yell for half dollars and their vaults and counters would be stocked to overflowing.

Not Returnable

Neville Bonner, the first Aboriginal member of the Australian parliament, is upset about boomerangs. Particularly those made in the United States.

What Bonner doesn't like is that U. S. boomerangs are out-selling those made by the Aborigines in Australia. Since it was his people who developed the boomerang, Bonner wants tariffs and other protective devices set up to keep the market for "those who own it as their special heritage."

Perhaps one reason why the aboriginal boomerangs are not doing well is they don't boomerang. According to the Australian boomerang throwing champion, Steve Silady, local varieties are too heavy to return.

That is understandable since the original use of the throwing implement was as a hunting tool. Hopefully, Bonner doesn't have in mind resurrecting that use with Americans in mind.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — As the complex economic guidelines are examined in detail it is becoming clear that one of them, the limitation on profit margins, will have little immediate impact on most industries.

The realization is apparently late in dawning on the consciousness of businessmen. And even when the full significance is understood, there is a hesitancy on the part of some corporate officials to act.

In the words of one economist who has spent long hours studying the situation, "Once you understand what it is you have to calculate you don't know how where to get the data."

For certain, however, many corporations will be able to pass along cost increases by raising prices, and private economists wouldn't be surprised to see a strong trend in this direction beginning shortly.

The profit ruling states that increases will be disallowed if they raise profit margins above the average level of a company's profits in the two best of the three years 1968-1969-1970.

The first interpretation of this ruling was that it would serve as a heavy lid on profits. Uncertainty of businessmen about the future and falling stock prices suggest that the feeling is still widespread.

A review of corporate profit margins shows, however, that the number of industries in which price increases are permissible is double the number of those in which increases are prohibited.

One study, by Rinfret Boston Associates, lists these industries as among many now operating below the 1968-1970 base:

Aerospace, auto, distilling, heating and plumbing, chemical, confectionary, paper, home furnishings, packaged food, household appliances, motion picture, department store, real estate, apparel manufacturing.

Among the industries which may be subject to profit margin ceilings, Rinfret lists these: Brewing, air conditioning, soft coal, drugs, finance, meat packing, food chain, soap, cigarette manufacturing.

The immediate consequence for companies with profit margins below the base period is that they can pass along cost increases through higher prices. It does not mean they can raise prices by more than their costs have increased in order to lift margins to base-period levels.

The consequence for the stock market is questionable, as is anything involving the stock market. It is conceivable that some prices might rise as the realization grows that future profits might be higher than foreseen.

And the most important effect, the impact on the consumer, is likely to be in the form of higher prices. It sounds like an old story.

For as long as I can remember I have taken some kind of medicine for constipation.

The medicines seem to work for a while and then become ineffective. Whenever I see a new advertisement or TV commercial I am tempted to try another laxative. The same thing happens.

I wish you could recommend some way that I could kick the habit.

Mr. S. K., Mo.

Dear Mr. K.:

"Laxative hopping" is part of the great American fixation on the false mystique of "regularity."

Americans spend more than $50,000,000 a year making a ritual cult of the "sluggish bowel."

It seems to me that, for some diabolical reason, every TV commercial promoting the cause of regularity and explaining the mechanics of bowel movement always coincides with the dinner hour.

Constipation is a condition that can be easily controlled in most instances by proper diet and especially by a sufficient intake of water each day.

Unfortunately, there is a misconception that the whole life cycle of the individual depends on the daily bowel movement.

Some people develop a tremendous sense of anxiety if their digestive system does not function on a pre-planned time schedule.

Actually, a bowel movement every two or three days is normal for many people in good health.

The result is that many do exactly as you have been doing, jumping from a cathartic to a purgative, to physics, enemas, bulk-producers, and irritants . . . all to ensure ritualistic punctuality of elimination.

Unless your doctor definitely prescribes a laxative, try to interrupt your dependency on them. Give your body a chance to function naturally.

Our daughter was born with a strawberry birthmark. At what age is it safe to have it removed from her face?

Mrs. T. C., Me.

Dear Mrs. C.:

The so-called strawberry birthmarks are considered to be vascular in origin—that is, they stem from a blood vessel.

The exact reason why these occur is not known. They may be due to some disorder of development, or related to heredity.

Many superstitions and folk tales are related to birthmarks. The false notion that a pregnant woman was frightened by an animal or that she ate the wrong food merely serves to enhance an unnecessary sense of guilt in the mother.

There are a number of different kinds of reddish birthmarks. Some get smaller and tend to disappear. Others grow as the child develops. There is, therefore, no single rule about the ideal time for the treatment of these birthmarks.

The doctor will keep your child under observation and will recommend one or more of the new techniques by which birthmarks can be handled.

Surgery is not always necessary.

Dear Editor,

On Sunday, November 14, a Rabies Clinic was held at six locations in Pickaway County. 1234 animals were injected with vaccine to protect not only the animals from rabies, but also to protect the children of our county. We, the Farm Bureau Women's Committee, want to thank

Dr. E. W. Hedges
Dr. Paul Teegardin
Dr. Stephen Yost
Dr. Rex Buller
Dr. Lon Cromley

Also we want to thank the Pickaway County Radio Patrol for their valuable assistance in communication and transportation on the day of the clinic.

Dear Editor:

We as members of the Route Committee for last Sunday's Hunger Walk, would like to thank the numerous city and county officials and organizations that helped us walk to Ashville safely.

First of all, thank you to the city police who escorted us up South Court Street to the junction of North Court and Walnut Creek Pike. Secondly, we would like to thank the County Sheriff's department who were waiting at Walnut Creek Pike to escort us the rest of the way to Ashville. An overwhelming amount of aid was offered to us by the React Rescue who were with us from the start of our trip to our final stop in Ashville. They could be seen at the intersections, rest stops, in front of us, and behind us always ready to pick up those who could walk no more and those who were in need of medical attention.

We would also like to give a special thanks to the Circleville Junior High School for allowing us to meet there to start our journey and to the Village United Methodist Church in Ashville for offering us warmth and a place to end our walk.

But more than just organizations helped us with our hike; there were many kind persons along the way. We can never fully let these people know how really appreciative we were. For those who allowed us to use their yards as places to check mileage: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Everhart, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins, and Mr. and Mrs. Henson, we send a big thank you. And to those kind persons who permitted us use of their restroom facilities: Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin Dumm and Mr. and Mrs. Tipton. A special thanks to those who sat at the tables and signed the mileage cards as well as those who were waiting with cars and buses to give us rides back to the Junior High.

Without the help of all these people, we could never have had such a safe and successful trip to Ashville.

Up On Metternich

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Henry Kissinger, Nixon's foreign affairs counselor, is a great admirer of Prince Metternich, the Austrian statesman who effectively ruled Europe from 1815 to 1848 by his adroit balance-of-power maneuvering. And the Nixon wooing of Red China is, supposedly, something right out of the Metternichian book. Just as Metternich tried to hold the scales even between the France of the post-Napoleonic restoration period and the more dynamic powers of Prussia and Russia, so Nixon and Kissinger are hoping to keep the Soviets in line by throwing a little of our diplomatic weight toward Peking.

The idea is fine. The only trouble with it is that the mechanics chosen by Nixon-Kissinger are wholly inappropriate to balancing anything. The Soviets, for years, have been trying to nail down the hatches in Eastern Europe, using "detente" in that part of the world to free their military forces for use along the 4,000-mile-long Red Chinese border. Meanwhile they have been championing the Arab cause in the Middle East in hopes that the Suez Canal will be opened to Soviet naval vessels and supply ships.

Moscow needs an open Suez for a number of reasons, chief of which is to put a naval flotilla into the Persian Gulf in order to dominate the politics of oil. A Suez opened under Russian auspices would enable the Soviet Navy to play its part in Asiatic waters in case of a "preventive" war against the Red Chinese.

If Henry Kissinger had truly understood the essence of Metternichian diplomacy, he would long ago have warned West Germany's Willy Brandt that the effect of a successful "Ostpolitik" detente in Central and Eastern Europe would be to release more and more Soviet tanks and planes for a "preventive" strike against the fledgling nuclear establishment of the Red Chinese. Moreover, if the spirit of Metternich were to prevail in our eastern Mediterranean diplomacy, we would be trying to put off the day of the reopening of the Suez Canal until our own Navy is strong enough to counter any Soviet "gunboat diplomacy" in the Indian Ocean area.

In our attempts to support Willy Brandt's "opening to the East" policies and to force Israel into a retreat from the east bank of the Suez, we have come dangerously close to assuring the Soviets that they can have a free hand in inner Asia. Then, just to make the worst of the whole deal, we try to reassure the Peking government that it can count on our moral support if the Soviets should strike in inner Asia or Manchuria with the forces we have enabled them to withdraw from the East European and Mediterranean fronts.

If Metternich were alive, he would be wholly mystified with our ambivalence. First, we do all we can to unweight the scales in favor of the Soviets vis-a-vis the Red Chinese. Then we turn to Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai and say, "Sorry, old pals, but you can count on our sympathy if you get hit."

When Nixon gets to Peking, it would not be surprising if Chu En-lai and Mao Tse-tung were to suggest that a truly Metternichian diplomacy demands more than good wishes. The only possible way we could help the Red Chinese in inner Asia would be to deflect some of the Soviet forces to guard duty in Poland and Czechoslovakia, and to close the Suez against the movement of Russian vessels to the China Sea. Since we don't propose any such strategic choices, Nixon's Peking trip will in all probability be just one of those things, a nice gesture in a great big vacuum.

And all because Henry Kissinger, though he is an able man in many respects, has misread his Metternich.

Dear Mrs. C.: The so-called strawberry birthmarks are considered to be vascular in origin—that is, they stem from a blood vessel.

The exact reason why these occur is not known. They may be due to some disorder of development, or related to heredity.

Many superstitions and folk tales are related to birthmarks. The false notion that a pregnant woman was frightened by an animal or that she ate the wrong food merely serves to enhance an unnecessary sense of guilt in the mother.

There are a number of different kinds of reddish birthmarks. Some get smaller and tend to disappear. Others grow as the child develops. There is, therefore, no single rule about the ideal time for the treatment of these birthmarks.

The doctor will keep your child under observation and will recommend one or more of the new techniques by which birthmarks can be handled.

Surgery is not always necessary.

Dear Editor,

On Sunday, November 14, a Rabies Clinic was held at six locations in Pickaway County. 1234 animals were injected with vaccine to protect not only the animals from rabies, but also to protect the children of our county. We, the Farm Bureau Women's Committee, want to thank

Dr. Charles Hardin
Dr. Paul Fenstermaker
Dr. E. W. Hedges
Dr. Paul Teegardin
Dr. Stephen Yost
Dr. Rex Buller
Dr. Don Quillen
and Dr. Shirley Clevenger for their generous cooperation in making the clinic a success. Without their help we can accomplish little in the struggle to prevent rabies.

Also we want to thank the Pickaway County Radio Patrol for their valuable assistance in communication and transportation on the day of the clinic.

Dear Editor:

We as members of the Route Committee for last Sunday's Hunger Walk, would like to thank the numerous city and county officials and organizations that helped us walk to Ashville safely.

First of all, thank you to the city police who escorted us to the junction of North Court and Walnut Creek Pike. Secondly, we would like to thank the County Sheriff's department who were waiting at Walnut Creek Pike to escort us the rest of the way to Ashville. An overwhelming amount of aid was offered to us by the React Rescue who were with us from the start of our trip to our final stop in Ashville. They could be seen at the intersections, rest stops, in front of us, and behind us always ready to pick up those who could walk no more and those who were in need of medical attention.

We would also like to give a special thanks to the Circleville Junior High School for allowing us to meet there to start our journey and to the Village United Methodist Church in Ashville for offering us warmth and a place to end our walk.

But more than just organizations helped us with our hike; there were many kind persons along the way. We can never fully let these people know how really appreciative we were. For those who allowed us to use their yards as places to check mileage: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Everhart, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cummins, and Mr. and Mrs. Henson, we send a big thank you. And to those kind persons who permitted us use of their restroom facilities: Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin Dumm and Mr. and Mrs. Tipton. A special thanks to those who sat at the tables and signed the mileage cards as well as those who were waiting with cars and buses to give us rides back to the Junior High.

Without the help of all these people, we could never have had such a safe and successful trip to Ashville.

Up On Metternich

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Henry Kissinger, Nixon's foreign affairs counselor, is a great admirer of Prince Metternich, the Austrian statesman who effectively ruled Europe from 1815 to 1848 by his adroit balance-of-power maneuvering. And the Nixon wooing of Red China is, supposedly, something right out of the Metternichian book. Just as Metternich tried to hold the scales even between the France of the post-Napoleonic restoration period and the more dynamic powers of Prussia and Russia, so Nixon and Kissinger are hoping to keep the Soviets in line by throwing a little of our diplomatic weight toward Peking.

The idea is fine. The only trouble with it is that the mechanics chosen by Nixon-Kissinger are wholly inappropriate to balancing anything. The Soviets, for years, have been trying to nail down the hatches in Eastern Europe, using "detente" in that part of the world to free their military forces for use along the 4,000-mile-long Red Chinese border. Meanwhile they have been championing the Arab cause in the Middle East in hopes that the Suez Canal will be opened to Soviet naval vessels and supply ships.

Moscow needs an open Suez for a number of reasons, chief of which is to put a naval flotilla into the Persian Gulf in order to dominate the politics of oil. A Suez opened under Russian auspices would also enable the Soviet Navy to play its part in Asiatic waters in case of a "preventive" war against the Red Chinese.

If Henry Kissinger had truly understood the essence of Metternichian diplomacy, he would long ago have warned West Germany's Willy Brandt that the effect of a successful "Ostpolitik" detente in Central and Eastern Europe would be to release more and more Soviet tanks and planes for a "preventive" strike against the fledgling nuclear establishment of the Red Chinese. Moreover, if the spirit of Metternich were to prevail in our eastern Mediterranean diplomacy, we would be trying to put off the day of the reopening of the Suez Canal until our own Navy is strong enough to counter any Soviet "gunboat diplomacy" in the Indian Ocean area.

In our attempts to support Willy Brandt's "opening to the East" policies and to force Israel into a retreat from the east bank of the Suez, we have come dangerously close to assuring the Soviets that they can have a free hand in inner Asia. Then, just to make the worst of the whole deal, we try to reassure the Peking government that it can count on our moral support if the Soviets should strike in inner Asia or Manchuria with the forces we have enabled them to withdraw from the East European and Mediterranean fronts.

If Metternich were alive, he would be wholly mystified by our ambivalence. First, we do all we can to unweight the scales in favor of the Soviets vis-a-vis the Red Chinese. Then we turn to Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai and say, "Sorry, old pals, but you can count on our sympathy if you get hit." When Nixon gets to Peking, it would not be surprising if Chu En-lai and Mao Tse-tung were to suggest that a truly Metternichian diplomacy demands more than good wishes. The only possible way we could help the Red Chinese in inner Asia would be to deflect some of the Soviet forces to guard duty in Poland and Czechoslovakia, and to close the Suez against the movement of Russian vessels to the China Sea. Since we don't propose any such strategic choices, Nixon's Peking trip will in all probability be just one of those things, a nice gesture in a great big vacuum.

And all because Henry Kissinger, though he is an able man in many respects, has misread his Metternich.

Former Saltcreek Twp. teacher and principal, George E. Armstrong, retired after 33 years of service as superintendent of Centralia Schools in Ross County. He claimed retiring was just too much hard work, and vowed to take a vacation from it as soon as possible.

Mrs. Roderick List, wife of Circleville police sergeant, was scheduled for orthopedic surgery, but a shortage of blood in Columbus postponed her operation. Sgt. List's sister informed the Columbus Police Department of the circumstances and within 30 minutes ten police cruisers arrived at the hospital with officers to donate blood. The Business World

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — As the complex economic guidelines are examined in detail it is becoming clear that one of them, the limitation on profit margins, will have little immediate impact on most industries.

The realization is apparently late in dawning on the consciousness of businessmen. And even when the full significance is understood, there is a hesitancy on the part of some corporate officials to act.

In the words of one economist who has spent long hours studying the situation, "Once you understand what it is you have to calculate you don't know how to calculate it. You don't know where to get the data."

For certain, however, many corporations will be able to pass along cost increases by raising prices, and private economists wouldn't be surprised to see a strong trend in this direction beginning shortly.

The profit ruling states that increases will be disallowed if they raise profit margins above the average level of a company's profits in the two best of the three years 1968-1969-1970.

The first interpretation of this ruling was that it would serve as a heavy lid on profits. Uncertainty of businessmen about the future and falling stock prices suggest that the feeling is still widespread.

A review of corporate profit margins shows, however, that the number of industries in which price increases are permissible is double the number of those in which increases are prohibited.

One study, by Rinfret Boston Associates, lists these industries as among many now operating below the 1968-1970 base:

Aerospace, auto, distilling, heating and plumbing, chemical, confectionary, paper, home furnishings, packaged food, household appliances, motion picture, department store, real estate, apparel manufacturing.

Among the industries which may be subject to profit margin ceilings, Rinfret list these: Brewing, air conditioning, soft coal, drugs, finance, meat packing, food chain, soap, cigarette manufacturing.

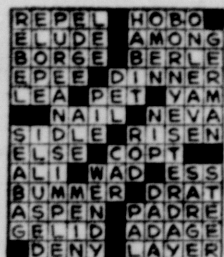

The immediate consequence for companies with profit margins below the base period is that they can pass along cost increases through higher prices. It does not mean they can raise prices by more than their costs have increased in order to lid margins to base-period levels.

The consequence for the stock market is questionable, as is anything involving the stock market. It is conceivable that some prices might rise as the realization grows that future profits might be higher than foreseen.

And the most important effect, the impact on the consumer, is likely to be in the form of higher prices. It sounds like an old story.

Tony Warren Addresses Circleville Branch AAUW

Guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of Circleville Branch of the American Assn. of University Women was Tony Warren. Mr. Warren was introduced by Mrs. Robert Milburn preceding the business session in the meeting room of Pickaway County Historical Society.

Mr. Warren is a native of Columbus and has been a teacher at North High School. He received his bachelor of science degree at Ohio State University and his master's degree at avier University in Cincinnati. He is currently doing graduate work in urban education at Ohio State University. Since 1968 he has been employed by the Ohio Education Association as a federal legislative coordinator. "That's Where Your Money Goes" was the topic of his speech concerning school financing. Mr. Warren discussed the ways in which schools were financed in the past and the way they are financed now. He also explained ways in which they can be financed in the future and reflected on some of the actions of the State Legislature.

During the business meeting Mrs. Robert Rustin introduced two new members making a total membership of 113. Mrs. Dieter Droste, chairman of the fellowship committee, briefly explained the purpose of the fellowship program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess committee: Mrs. Leora Sayre, chairman; Miss Margaret Bower, Mrs. Felix Dore, Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood, Mrs. Neal Hamilton, Miss Christine Haley, Mrs. Roger Hedges, Miss Elizabeth Tolbert, Mrs. Richard Wylie, Mrs. Donald Stevenson and Miss Patty Southward.

Bare-Backed Look Gets Competition

NEW YORK (AP) — After the braless look and the micro-mini skirt, can the naked back be far behind?

Designers are selling their backless look in couture clothes, but it is getting stiff competition from the popular covered-up evening dress for spring. Both are selling in long lengths.

"If you cut an arm hole lower, they freak out," says Chester Weinberg, whose best seller is an ankle length dress with modest white collar and cuffs.

Weinberg has seen some store buyer resistance to the halter dress. So have Pauline Trigere, Donald Brooks, Stan Herman and Oscar de la Renta.

However, some designers feel that the bare back look will become stronger.

"Everyone's hollering about the strapless back. What is so terribly wrong about a bare back when they've worn dresses up to their behinds?" asks Victor Joris.

"On most women the back is good. It's about the last thing to go," he said.

Country Doctor Dispenses Counseling And Medicine

HUNTINGTON, Utah (AP) — Dr. Lena F. Schreier believes it takes 50 years of rich experience to produce a good doctor.

Patients of the diminutive doctor with an original washer-woman hairdo get a 10 year bonus. She began practice in 1911 after graduating from a Nebraska medical school. She's a country doctor. She'll stay one as long as she's needed. She's been Huntington's doctor since 1952.

For five years before, Huntington had no doctor. When she leaves, there probably won't be a replacement. She's been ready to leave for three years. Her waiting room is crowded with boxes of books, stacks of magazines, an old television set. She sees patients despite the moving mess.

She hasn't had a vacation since 1963. For the eight years before, she'd always gone somewhere "important" — to Switzerland, London, New Zealand.

She lives in an apartment behind her office. She's combined living-working space since 1939.

"Most evenings are interrupted. But that's what I'm here for. I do get a little angry when a patient waits until night when he could have come during the day."

Doctoring is in her blood. Her grandmother was a midwife. Her mother was a neighborhood doctor — without formal training. Three cousins were nurses. But she never went with her mother or grandmother on their calls.

"They didn't take kids along or talk about sickness or the body like they do now. Every child knows now what he shouldn't know. I'd always planned to go to college. I'd like to go again. When I started medical school, it was a disgrace for a woman to be a nurse. She had to see and do things around patients that a woman wasn't supposed to see or do. My family encouraged me to go to medical school. But it was hard. The boys in class would have been happy to throw me out."

She remembered the names of the four other women who started medical school. They were five in a class of 160.

"And there weren't any other women in that medical school for years before or after."

She married a classmate. "We had such big plans. We were going to a city where he could be a surgeon and I could specialize in women and children. He had asthma and pneumonia in our senior year."

Restaurant Owner Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Leo Durbin, 72, who operated one of the Midwest's most popular restaurants and fathered a family of hotel executives, died today in an Indianapolis hospital after a short illness.

He and his wife Mary, who survives, operated the Durbin Hotel in Rushville in eastern Indiana. In a city of 7,000, their restaurant often served more than 1,700 meals a day.

Their seven children include Robert Durbin, vice president of the Sheraton chain; James, president of Marriott Motor Hotels; Donald, president of the Durbin, and David, vice president of the Durbin.

The elder Durbins had called themselves "semi-retired" in recent years. They entered the field 50 years ago at Celina, Ohio, creating the equivalent of a modern motel with apartments in a string of box cars.

They bought the Rushville hotel, built in 1841, in 1926.

Our old professor advised us to change our plans and to move to the country."

They went to Texas and milder climate. Both were general practitioners. After her husband's death, she went west.

Her brand of medicine is "psychological prophylactic" — liberal doses of philosophy to bring mental relief.

"My patients are my friends. Mental suffering is the most painful of all illnesses. People are brainwashed into thinking they're ill. When I was young, nobody had ever heard of a gastric ulcer. Now they're common. The way people are drifting mentally is pathetic."

"I spend a lot of time taking blood pressure. That's what my patients want me to do. It satisfied them mentally. Research has shown that fear can be destructive to the body. It can produce a chemical change in the blood."

She quit wearing white office coats years ago. They're too somber. And they frighten her young patients. She's gone through one black doctor's bag and is working on her second.

She keeps up her license in Utah, Oregon, Texas and Washington because "you never know when you might want to go somewhere else." She's annoyed when asked her age and won't tell.

"When I first came here," she said, "people thought I was crazy. I know to some it's just a wide spot in the road. But not to me. The years have ticked off so fast for me here. I worked in a big city, but I wasn't happy. I wanted to get back to a small town."

She dispenses moral and spiritual counseling along with pills. She can be stern if she thinks she needs to. Or she can soothe an ache with a few words over the phone. She's also concerned with her patients' eating habits.

"It's appalling the adulterated stuff people put in their mouths. They are just digging their graves with their teeth."

"Sometimes I feel this community is about through with me. Maybe I'm too old. I don't believe my life has been unusual. I've done what I was supposed to do. Flattery doesn't do much for me. I just love my work."

EXPERIENCE — Dr. Lena F. Schreier believes it takes experience to make a good doctor. Dr. Schreier began practice herself in 1911 and has been practicing in Huntington, Utah since 1952.

Pickaway Social Club Views Jewelry Collection

The Pickaway Social Club met Thursday, Nov. 18 in Trinity Lutheran Parish House with 40 members present.

Morning hours were spent visiting, playing games and looking over the various Christmas decorating items brought for exchange of ideas. Some availed themselves of the opportunity to trace patterns for themselves.

After the lunch hour a business meeting was held. Mrs. Eva Heffelfinger, birthday chairman, reported that there were five November birthdays in the group. The group then sang "Happy Birthday" to Nellie Oldaker, Martha Hitler, Ethel Lane and Goldie Hill. Winifred Carroll was unable to be present.

Mrs. Lorentz read a letter from the Rev. Mary Lou Henderson, a former member who now lives in London, Ohio. The group decided to send Rev. Henderson a year's subscription to the Circleville Herald as a Christmas gift.

Tony Warren Addresses Circleville Branch AAUW

Guest speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of Circleville Branch of the American Assn. of University Women was Tony Warren. Mr. Warren was introduced by Mrs. Robert Milburn preceding the business session in the meeting room of Pickaway County Historical Society.

Mr. Warren is a native of Columbus and has been a teacher at North High School. He received his bachelor of science degree at Ohio State University and his master's degree at Ohio State University in Cincinnati. He is currently doing graduate work in urban education at Ohio State University. Since 1968 he has been employed by the Ohio Education Association as a federal legislative coordinator.

"That's Where Your Money Goes" was the topic of his speech concerning school financing. Mr. Warren discussed the ways in which schools were financed in the past and the way they are financed now. He also explained ways in which they can be financed in the future and reflected on some of the actions of the State Legislature.

During the business meeting Mrs. Robert Rustin introduced two new members making a total membership of 113. Mrs. Dieter Droste, chairman of the fellowship committee, briefly explained the purpose of the fellowship program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess committee: Mrs. Leora Sayre, chairman; Miss Margaret Bower, Mrs. Felix Dore, Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood, Mrs. Neal Hamilton, Miss Christine Haley, Mrs. Roger Hedges, Miss Elizabeth Tolbert, Mrs. Richard Wylie, Mrs. Donald Stevenson and Miss Patty Southward.

Pickaway Social Club Views Jewelry Collection

The Pickaway Social Club met Thursday, Nov. 18 in Trinity Lutheran Parish House with 40 members present.

Morning hours were spent visiting, playing games and looking over the various Christmas decorating items brought for exchange of ideas. Some availed themselves of the opportunity to trace patterns for themselves.

After the lunch hour a business meeting was held. Mrs. Eva Heffelfinger, birthday chairman, reported that there were five November birthdays in the group. The group then sang "Happy Birthday" to Nellie Oldaker, Martha Hitler, Ethel Lane and Goldie Hill. Winifred Carroll was unable to be present.

Mrs. Lorentz read a letter from the Rev. Mary Lou Henderson, a former member who now lives in London, Ohio. The group decided to send Rev. Henderson a year's subscription to the Circleville Herald as a Christmas gift.

Bare-Backed Look Gets Competition

NEW YORK (AP) — After the braless look and the micro-mini skirt, can the naked back be far behind?

Designers are selling their backless look in couture clothes, but it is getting stiff competition from the popular covered-up evening dress for spring. Both are selling in long lengths.

"If you cut an arm hole lower, they freak out," says Chester Weinberg, whose best seller is an ankle length dress with modest white collar and cuffs.

Weinberg has seen some store buyer resistance to the halter dress. So have Pauline Trigere, Donald Brooks, Stan Herman and Oscar de la Renta.

However, some designers feel that the bare back look will become stronger.

"Everyone's hollering about the strapless back. What is so terribly wrong about a bare back when they've worn dresses up to their behinds?" asks Victor Joris.

"On most women the back is good. It's about the last thing to go," he said.

Country Doctor Dispenses Counseling And Medicine

HUNTINGTON, Utah (AP) — Dr. Lena F. Schreier believes it takes 50 years of rich experience to produce a good doctor.

Patients of the diminutive doctor with an original washer-woman hairdo get a 10 year bonus. She began practice in 1911 after graduating from a Nebraska medical school. She's a country doctor. She'll stay one as long as she's needed. She's been Huntington's doctor since 1952.

For five years before, Huntington had no doctor. When she leaves, there probably won't be a replacement. She's been ready to leave for three years. Her waiting room is crowded with boxes of books, stacks of magazines, an old television set. She sees patients despite the moving mess.

She hasn't had a vacation since 1963. For the eight years before, she'd always gone somewhere "important" — to Switzerland, London, New Zealand.

She lives in an apartment behind her office. She's combined living-working space since 1939.

"Most evenings are interrupted. But that's what I'm here for. I do get a little angry when a patient waits until night when he could have come during the day."

Doctoring is in her blood. Her grandmother was a midwife. Her mother was a neighborhood doctor — without formal training. Three cousins were nurses. But she never went with her mother or grandmother on their calls.

"They didn't take kids along or talk about sickness or the body like they do now. Every child knows now what he shouldn't know. I'd always planned to go to college. I'd like to go again. When I started medical school, it was a disgrace for a woman to be a nurse. She had to see and do things around patients that a woman wasn't supposed to see or do. My family encouraged me to go to medical school. But it was hard. The boys in class would have been happy to throw me out."

She remembered the names of the four other women who started medical school. They were five in a class of 160.

"And there weren't any other women in that medical school for years before or after."

She married a classmate. "We had such big plans. We were going to a city where he could be a surgeon and I could specialize in women and children. He had asthma and pneumonia in our senior year."

Restaurant Owner Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Leo Durbin, 72, who operated one of the Midwest's most popular restaurants and fathered a family of hotel executives, died today in an Indianapolis hospital after a short illness.

He and his wife Mary, who survives, operated the Durbin Hotel in Rushville in eastern Indiana. In a city of 7,000, their restaurant often served more than 1,700 meals a day.

Their seven children include Robert Durbin, vice president of the Sheraton chain; James Trigere, Donald Brooks, Stan Herman and Oscar de la Renta.

The elder Durbins had called themselves "semi-retired" in recent years. They entered the field 50 years ago at Celina, Ohio, creating the equivalent of a modern motel with apartments in a string of box cars. They bought the Rushville hotel, built in 1841, in 1926.

Our old professor advised us to change our plans and to move to the country."

They went to Texas and milder climate. Both were general practitioners. After her husband's death, she went west.

Her brand of medicine is "psychological prophylactic" — liberal doses of philosophy to bring mental relief.

"My patients are my friends. Mental suffering is the most painful of all illnesses. People are brainwashed into thinking they're ill. When I was young, nobody had ever heard of a gastric ulcer. Now they're common. The way people are drifting mentally is pathetic."

EXPERIENCE — Dr. Lena F. Schreier believes it takes experience to make a good doctor. Dr. Schreier began practice herself in 1911 and has been practicing in Huntington, Utah since 1952.

"I spend a lot of time taking blood pressure. That's what my patients want me to do. It satisfied them mentally. Research has shown that fear can be destructive to the body. It can produce a chemical change in the blood."

She quit wearing white office coats years ago. They're too somber. And they frighten her young patients. She's gone through one black doctor's bag and is working on her second.

She keeps up her license in Utah, Oregon, Texas and Washington because "you never know when you might want to go somewhere else." She's annoyed when asked her age and won't tell.

"When I first came here," she said, "people thought I was crazy. I know to some it's just a wide spot in the road. But not to me. The years have ticked off so fast for me here. I worked in a big city, but I wasn't happy. I wanted to get back to a small town."

She dispenses moral and spiritual counseling along with pills. She can be stern if she thinks she needs to. Or she can soothe an ache with a few words over the phone. She's also concerned with her patients' eating habits.

"It's appalling the adulterated stuff people put in their mouths. They are just digging their graves with their teeth."

"Sometimes I feel this community is about through with me. Maybe I'm too old. I don't believe my life has been unusual. I've done what I was supposed to do. Flattery doesn't do much for me. I just love my work."

ROBERT FEATHERINGHAM

Robert P. Featheringham, cashier of The Ashville Bank, was a summer graduate, one of eighty, from the eighth annual session of the Ohio School of Installment Credit. Graduation ceremonies were held July 16 at Kent State University.

The specialized school is sponsored by the Ohio Bankers Assn., headquartered in Columbus. Students are presented a curriculum designed to expose them to all phases in the specific area of installment lending.

The course of instruction consists of one resident summer session of one week. The curriculum, based on the case study method, is complete in itself and each student is required to take it in its entirety. There are no electives.

In May, Featheringham attended the 50th Annual Banquet of the American Institute of Banking, Columbus. At that time he was one of two students, from a total of 14, to receive both his Basic and Standard Certificates from banking school.

Castro Nixes Unnecessary Use Of Force

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Fidel Castro says the world political situation has become highly favorable for left-wing revolution. But he seeks takeover by force only as a last resort.

"The United States has reached a low point in its international prestige," Castro told members of left-wing Chilean parties Thursday night in Santiago's Municipal Theater.

The Cuban prime minister has been in Chile for more than two weeks—his first trip to another Latin American country since 1959, the year he came to power.

At the time of the Cuban revolution the world balance between socialism and imperialism was about even, Castro said, demonstrating with his hands.

"Now it's like this," he continued, raising one hand higher. "It has changed in favor of revolutionary movements."

Hoarse and tired after a heavy schedule of appearances, Castro termed the election of Marxist-Socialist Salvador Allende as president of Chile "a really unique achievement in history."

There never was any contradiction between achieving socialism through free elections and by doing so through Cuban-style armed conquest, Castro said. He added that Latin American revolutionary movements should use force "only when all other means are blocked."

Ohio Senate To Resurrect Income Tax?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate had a skeleton session scheduled today amid speculation a move might be made to resurrect a state income tax bill killed Monday night.

Legislative leaders reportedly have agreed the measure could be brought back up in the Senate if a motion to reconsider were offered by someone who voted against it.

Today's skeleton session, a formality to keep the legislature legally alive, was considered a likely time for such a motion.

Meanwhile, a coalition of liberal and conservative lawmakers was working on a new income tax approach which would provide for elimination of city income taxes.

The coalition is headed by Rep. Robert E. Netzey, R-7 Laura, leader of anti-state income tax forces, and Rep. Robert E. Sweeney, D-47 Cleveland, a co-sponsor of Gov. John Gilligan's original income tax plan.

Netzey and Sweeney said the group was studying the possibility of a county-collected income tax, something Netzey has been fighting for since March.

But Sweeney said a state tax or a regional tax also are possibilities the coalition wants to examine.

Another possibility listed by the two was a state surtax on federal income tax returns.

Any new statewide tax, Sweeney said, would assure cities as much revenue "and possibly more" than they now are getting from their own income taxes.

Gilligan Office Mum On Income Tax Defeat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Quiet has enveloped the office of Gov. John Gilligan since the personal income tax bill he supported was defeated 17-15 in the Senate.

The governor's press operation usually hums before and after a tax bill vote, with press releases either for or against, usually against, quickly distributed.

There was no release this week. And Press Secretary Robert Tenenbaum said there would be none.

"Maybe the governor finally learned to keep his mouth shut," a Republican state senator mused. "He would have had an income tax bill by now if he hadn't interfered."

Gilligan two weeks ago withdrew support of a bill authored by Republicans just as it was ready for a floor vote. It died as a result.

The governor obviously gambled that the so-called Taft-Flannery bill, which was closer to what he wanted, would pass. He lost.

The "Goodbye Gilligan" bumper stickers that have sprouted around the statehouse are beginning to irk somebody in the governor's office.

A Senate secretary said her husband, who drives her to work each morning, had one on his car—for a while.

The license number was noted by somebody close to the administration. A couple of days later, she said, her husband's boss got a call from the governor's office. A voice explained that if he wanted to do business with the state, his employee had better get rid of the sticker.

The secretary's husband has a tobacco route, servicing cigarette machines and stocking tobacco counters. Many of his machines and customers are in state office buildings.

Anti-state personal income tax forces in the legislature, headed by Rep. Robert Netzey, R-7 Laura, were confident the latest income tax bill wouldn't pass on the Senate floor Monday night.

Before the vote was taken, they were passing out cards reading, "Cheer up! It may never happen."

Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson has turned down a $55.08 expense item submitted by the Ohio Water Development Authority.

The authority asked that the state pay for a coffee machine and supplies purchased for OWDA offices.

"We're not going to have public officials sitting around drinking coffee at public expense," Ferguson said. "If they want coffee, let them buy it."

The 79-year-old Ferguson was something of a celebrity recently, garnering congratulations from around the county when he and his wife observed their 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 17.

One of the letters came from another veteran of political wars and marital bliss. It was signed, "Harry S. Truman."

Netzley and Sweeney said the group was studying the possibility of a county-collected income tax, something Netzley has been fighting for since March.

But Sweeney said a state tax or a regional tax also are possibilities the coalition wants to examine.

Another possibility listed by the two was a state surtax on federal income tax returns.

Any new statewide tax, Sweeney said, would assure cities as much revenue "and possibly more" than they now are getting from their own income taxes.

Gilligan Office Mum On Income Tax Defeat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Quiet has enveloped the office of Gov. John Gilligan since the personal income tax bill he supported was defeated 17-15 in the Senate.

The governor's press operation usually hums before and after a tax bill vote, with press releases either for or against, usually against, quickly distributed.

There was no release this week. And Press Secretary Robert Tenenbaum said there would be none.

"Maybe the governor finally learned to keep his mouth shut," a Republican state senator mused. "He would have had an income tax bill by now if he hadn't interfered."

Gilligan two weeks ago withdrew support of a bill authored by Republicans just as it was ready for a floor vote. It died as a result.

The governor obviously gambled that the so-called Taft-Flannery bill, which was closer to what he wanted, would pass. He lost.

The "Goodbye Gilligan" bumper stickers that have sprouted around the statehouse are beginning to irk somebody in the governor's office.

A Senate secretary said her husband, who drives her to work each morning, had one on his car—for a while.

The license number was noted by somebody close to the administration. A couple of days later, she said, her husband's boss got a call from the governor's office. A voice explained that if he wanted to do business with the state, his employee had better get rid of the sticker.

The secretary's husband has a tobacco route, servicing cigarette machines and stocking tobacco counters. Many of his machines and customers are in state office buildings.

Anti-state personal income tax forces in the legislature, headed by Rep. Robert Netzley, R-7 Laura, were confident the latest income tax bill wouldn't pass on the Senate floor Monday night.

Before the vote was taken, they were passing out cards reading, "Cheer up! It may never happen."

Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson has turned down a $55.08 expense item submitted by the Ohio Water Development Authority.

The authority asked that the state pay for a coffee machine and supplies purchased for OWDA offices.

"We're not going to have public officials sitting around drinking coffee at public expense," Ferguson said. "If they want coffee, let them buy it."

The 79-year-old Ferguson was something of a celebrity recently, garnering congratulations from around the county when he and his wife observed their 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 17.

One of the letters came from another veteran of political wars and marital bliss. It was signed, "Harry S. Truman."

Mrs. Joe Jenkins — 474-5542

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Van Fossen and Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jones attended the Ohio State-Michigan football game at Ann Arbor last Saturday afternoon. After spending Saturday night at Bowling Green, they attended church services at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in that city, returning home Sunday evening.

The art of Thanksgiving is thanks living. It is gratitude in action. It is adding to your prayers of thanksgiving acts of thanksgiving.

The Truth Seekers class of the United Methodist Church will meet in the church social room on Saturday evening, Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m. with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jenkins as hosts.

Mr. David Luckhart has returned to his home in Washington, D.C., after having been a surgical patient at Mercey Hospital, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rawlins, Clarksburg, visited last Saturday evening with Mrs. Rawlins' sister, Mrs. Ann Stevens.

The football team of Columbus Eastmoor High School, of which Charles Spangler is assistant coach, recently won the city football championship.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ballard (Kathy Macklin) are parents of a baby daughter, born Thursday at St. Ann's Hospital, Columbus. Maternal grandparents are George Macklin and the late Ruth Morris Macklin, and maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Orland DeLong.

We wish a happy birthday to "Aunt Lou" Singleton, who will be observing her birthday on Tuesday, Nov. 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Ash, Tom and Mike, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ash enjoyed supper last Tuesday evening at L-K Restaurant and then went bowling at Prairie Lanes. The occasion was in celebration of Tom's eleventh birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ward, Circleville, visited on Tuesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Turvey.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hartranft were hosts at a family dinner on Sunday, in honor of their daughter Trina's fifth birthday. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. John Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dingess, Mrs. Della Worley and children, and the honored guests brothers and sister.

The community extends its sympathy to the family of the late Arthur W. Fortner, who died at the Gospel Light Nursing Home, in Kingston on Saturday.

Airman and Mrs. D. Stephen Ash left Monday noon for J. F. Kennedy Air Base and will fly from there to Rome, Italy, and thence to the Air Base in Brindise, Italy where Airman Ash will be stationed for the next eighteen months.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will meet on Wednesday, Dec. 1 for its monthly meeting. There will be a carry-in lunch at 12:30 p.m. to be followed by the business meeting, program, gift exchange and revealing of Mystery Sisters.

AF Recruiter For Circleville Area Named

RANDALL SUTTON

Staff Sergeant Randall L. Sutton has been assigned as Air Force Recruiter in Circleville and Lancaster. He will have his office at 125 N. Columbus St. in Lancaster.

Sergeant Sutton was previously assigned to Ft. Fisher in North Carolina where he was selected as a volunteer with an outstanding military record. Sutton completed the special recruiter course at Lackland AFB, Texas where training the classification system, testing procedures and community relations to broaden his qualifications for presenting the facts of Air Force career opportunities to young men and women.

Sutton and his wife Brenda Joyce Hand Sutton, are presently living at 338 N. Columbus St. and plan to buy a home and settle in Lancaster. Sgt. Sutton will be in Circleville every Tuesday and Thursday 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Post Office. Call 654-3729 anytime for an appointment.

Saturday is observed as the Sabbath on Pitcairn Island.

SATURDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: After two difficult days you have an unusually good day to rise above gloom or any uncertainty that has been present. You can now put in effect a new course of action that appeals to you. Be openminded concerning new activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Meeting as many people as you can is wise today since much good can come of this in the future. Show that you have delightful manners. Dress in good taste.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have fine ideas that must be incorporated into a practical plan if you are to make the future better for yourself. An expert can be helpful in getting the date you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Getting together with good friends today is fine. You can gain that cherished aim that means so much to you. Use diplomacy for which you are noted. Relax tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are now able to contact those bigwigs who couldn't be reached earlier in the week. Take time to find the right accessories for your wardrobe. Show good taste.

LEO (July 2 to Aug. 21) A good day to look into new activities that could give you more benefits in the future and get you out of that dull routine. Showing devotion to mate this evening is wise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the right system that will be good for handling all of your obligations in the future. Engage in new activities. Resume important talks with associates tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle association matters more wisely for better results. A good time to talk affairs over with one who is an opponent. You can now come to a fine point of understanding.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan arrangements better so that they work more efficiently in the days ahead. Take steps to improve your health. Stop procrastinating about this. Show that you have wisdom.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can have a delightful time with good friends today at a social function that most appeals to you. Stop being so shy and make a fine impression on those who matter.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Talking over changes that should be made in the home with kin will yield fine results now. Improve those interests that are vital to you. Visit a good friend tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Show that you are appreciative of good friends and the favors they have extended to you. Use your fine mind for good purposes. You can get the data you need from an associate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are able to make those needed changes in monetary affairs now so that you have more abundance in the future. Listen to what an expert in business has to suggest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who can become very successful because there is fine ability to carry through with a worthwhile idea. Teach early not to be blunt with others and lose out where diplomacy would be far more worthwhile and effective. Teach that the feelings of others could easily be hurt. Sports are fine here.

Church And Saxbe Visit Indira Gandhi

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and William Saxbe, R-Ohio, called on Prime Minister Indira Gandhi today at the start of a four-day study of the East Pakistan refugee problem.

An Indian spokesman said Mrs. Gandhi briefed the senators who are here on an invitation from the Indian government, on the refugee situation during their half-hour meeting. They are due to fly to Calcutta on Saturday to tour some refugee camps.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Court appearances were set today for five men and three women arrested in raids on two residences here Thursday on drug charges.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BY TOWNSHIP ZONING COMMISSION

The Circleville Township Rural Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing on a proposed amendment to the Circleville Township Zoning Resolution, on Monday, December 13, 1971, at 8:00 P.M. E.S.T., at the Council Chambers, Circleville, Ohio.

The nature of such amendment is to rezone the approximate 18 acres known as the Milton P. Manson land, except the frontage along U.S. Route 22, 250 feet deep, from "residential use" to "R-3 use" to allow construction of apartments.

After the conclusion of the above said hearing, this matter will be referred to the Board of Trustees of Circleville Township for further determination.

Bank Credit Card Interest Too High

uld face some troubles soon a justice of the peace deci-on is allowed to stand.
Magistrate George Warner led Tuesday that the 18 per cent interest rate—1½ per cent month—charged by the Char-ston National Bank on its BankAmericard accounts is in violation of the state's usury laws.
In fact, Warner ruled the interest rate should be 6 per cent.
And he awarded to plaintiff
James H. Coleman, an assistant state attorney general acting as an individual, refunds on interest he had paid in excess of 6 per cent.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court Wednesday upheld the constitutionality of a state law permitting aid to non-

2 Men Charged With Grand Larceny

CELINA, Ohio (AP) — Municipal Court appearances are scheduled Monday for two Indiana men charged with breaking and entering and larceny in connection with 22 recent robberies.

Some $6,500 worth of stolen merchandise was recovered when James Mettett, 22, and his brother-in-law, Gary Timmons, 21, both of Winchester, Ind., were arrested by sheriff's deputies.

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — The unique fashion show of 1971 may be the one given by a local weight - control group. It modeled "before and after"

A black and white photograph capturing a bustling scene inside a mid-20th-century department store. The foreground is dominated by a jewelry counter where a woman in a patterned dress is looking at items, while a male clerk in a striped shirt serves her. To the right, another woman browses a display of small goods. The middle ground is filled with a diverse crowd of shoppers, including a man in a suit and a woman in a light-colored dress, as they navigate through aisles lined with shelves of merchandise. In the background, large windows reveal a cityscape, and the store's interior is characterized by high ceilings and dramatic lighting. The overall atmosphere is one of a busy, well-stocked retail environment.

Most of us have felt the pangs of loneliness in the midst of a crowd. Surrounded by people, we couldn't escape that feeling of utter desolation. It may engulf us in a busy department store, a crowded supermarket, a jam-packed subway, but suddenly it strikes . . . this feeling that no one cares about us or about our burdens.

At the heart of the universe there are great resources of strength. Discover them for yourself by worshipping each week in the church of your choice.

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Folk tales, fairy tales, myths all began as entertainment for grown-ups. But many have been taken over by children, as part of their own particular literature. Many such stories are in the library in new formats.

Chris Connor, illustrator of a re-telling of "Daedalus and Icarus" has caught the style and tints of the ancient Greek artisans. Her figures appear to have just stepped off a Grecian urn. They appear in striking poses, each page in full color. Penelope Farmer, who is responsible for the text, has written it in such a manner that it will appeal to children of all ages.

Hungary gave us the story of the "Seven Skinny Goats." Of course they were not always thin. But the new goat herd played such lively tunes on his flute that they danced off their fat. Victor Ambrus both wrote and illustrated this charming folk tale.

Surely "The Sleeping Beauty" ranks among the most-often told of all the Grimm fairy tales. Lieselotte Schwarz has illustrated a new version book with impressionistic illustrations. Bright reds, brilliant blues and vivid yellows are in sharp contrast to large areas of black. All her figures are deceptively simple, making the book a real work of art.

Adjusting different art media to the action of "The Girl and the Goatherd," Evaline Ness has created an unusual children's book. Her moral, that happiness is better than beauty, is clear as crystal. Miss Ness was twice runner-up for the Caldecott Medal, and was awarded it in 1967 for "Sam, Bangs and Moonshine."

Not often in the children's department do we find a book about Africa's oldest inhabitants and their culture. But former teacher Elizabeth Helfman has collected fourteen short tales in a volume titled "Bushmen and their Stories." Close to nature in constant search for food, the Bushmen reflect this feeling in their folklore. Mantis, a very human god with both heroic and humorous traits, plays a large role in the stories. This book is of note because of its little-known background.

Another book about Africa is "Sundiata, the Epic of the Lion King." It takes place during the thirteenth century, in the country of Mali. Sundiata, its ruler, is a legendary figure whose life story has been celebrated by nature storytellers up to this very day. Rolland Bertol wrote the text, and charcoal drawings by Gregorio Prestopino illustrates it.

Building Plans Discussed At Berger Board Meeting

Discussion on possible building programs occupied the first half of the Wednesday evening meeting of the Berger Board of Governors.

Proposals of the architect, Dan Carmichael, utilizing various portions of the present hospital building or constructing an entirely new building, estimated costs to renovate and build at about $3½ million.

The basic goal of the building program is to make the hospital competitive with those in the surrounding area, not just today but in the future. During debate, Dr. J. M. Hedges noted that the important part of the building program, if it is to proceed, is an early decision that the new hospital will be developed to offer as wide a variety of specialized treatment as possible for the area, not intending to compete on the scale with Columbus hospitals, which would be impossible, but to provide adequate and essential medical service as a hospital and not a health station in Pickaway County.

Carmichael informed the Berger governing board that the present institution would be difficult and costly to renovate with the exception of the maternity wing. His scale of costs showed three different proposals to bring the building up to state requirements and provide additional space, would all cost essentially $3½ million.

FRANK Wilson of the Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation, earlier made a similar statement in his survey of Berger Hospital, noting that current building did not lend itself to logical renovation as a hospital which will meet future state requirements.

Wilson's proposal to remodel the present structure neared a cost of $2 million, also an estimated figure. Carmichael invited board members to visit a hospital in Wadsworth, near Akron, where his firm had just completed work on a 100-bed hospital there, similar to one he suggested building here should the board and community choose to support a new hospital building.

Administrator John Reid submitted a tentative budget to the board, suggesting a cut in expenses for the calendar year 1972. To meet the budget for $1,275,000, Reid requested the board pass a $2 increase in bed rates. The board complied, raising the hospital room rates to a low of $32 and a high of $44 effective January, 1972.

Also in financial matters, members put into effect the $700 annual salary increase which they had authorized in August, but had been halted by the President's wage freeze.

A meeting of Bob Huffer and Russ Palm from the hospital board and representatives of the medical staff was ordered to discuss methods of increasing hospital occupancy which has been lower than desirable since August. For October, the hospital showed 64 per cent occupancy, lower than September and November's figures to date are at 63 per cent.

REID noted that repairs were getting numerous and costly on the hospital's 16-year-old X-ray machine, which may require replacement soon. All hospital employees' medical insurance was expanded for almost total coverage by contract which will take effect Jan. 1, 1972. Attending the meeting were Reid, Mayor Richard Gerhardt, Russ Palm, Mrs. Joy Myers, Howard Koch, Henry Schroeder, Dr. Robert Phillips, Harry Clifton, Dr. Hedges, Dr. Carls Alvarez, Dr. F. W. Anderson, Bob Huffer and a guest, Mrs. Sterling Poling.

Special Traffic Tickets Issued

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Police have begun issuing 50,000 special traffic summonses—wishing motorists "a most joyous and rewarding holiday season."

The summonses look like an ordinary parking ticket but the reverse side contains a message surrounded by a green holly border. They will be given to motorists who leave their cars unlocked or valuable articles inside.

"Lock your car, pocket the keys," urges each summons, which explains larcenies of and from automobiles increase during the holiday season. The special tickets are not used as a penalty, just a reminder.

Hank Mann Dies; 'Keystone Kop'

SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Hank Mann, believed to be the last survivor of Mack Sennette's original Keystone Kops, has died here at the age of 84.

Entering motion pictures in 1912, Mann played one of the bumbling, bowler-hatted policemen in numerous movies and made occasional character actor appearances as late as 1960.

He died Thursday at the Braewood Convalescent Hospital. Funeral services were not announced and will be private. He is survived by his widow, Dolly.

Eccentrics OK, Doctor Claims

LONDON (AP) — Too many old-style English eccentrics are being packed off to mental hospitals when they only need humoring by their families, a British physician said today.

"What's wrong with having the odd eccentric in the family," demanded Dr. William Edwards, writing in medical magazine "Pulse."

"If your wife likes to bark like a dog, give her a dog biscuit," he says.

Christopher W. Pinto said U.N. delegates are subject to "an extraordinary form of censorship" in New York.

"It tells them: 'Let your views meet with the approval of all shades of the city's opinion or suffer at the hands of the particular group you have offended.'"

"New York is supposed to be a swinging, permissive city," said Pinto, "but where is this permissiveness when it comes to giving expression to the views of the countries represented here?"

Behind the complaints is the hint of a threat to move the world organization to another country.

The threat is nothing new, but it is being said now by more delegates and in louder voices. Representatives of countries as different as Spain and Mongolia are demanding that the U.S. government do something to improve the diplomatic lot.

The Soviet Union, a leading target of some of New York's less hospitable elements, is making a bargaining point of recent reports that the city receives large financial benefits from the U.N. presence.

The Russians, angered by a sniper attack on their mission last month, had the question of security added to the agenda of the General Assembly.

Consideration of the item in the assembly's legal committee has unleashed a torrent of speeches on the injustices of New York.

Besides the robberies, burglaries, flag rippings and demonstrations, delegates complain that New York policemen are not properly instructed on how to treat foreign diplomats.

Many also think the confusing division of authority in the United States is nonsense. It forces diplomats to deal with City Hall and the police and fire departments while they think the federal government, through the U.S. mission here, should take care of all matters pertaining to U.N. delegates.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush told the delegates that he hopes for congressional action on a State Department proposal to extend federal protection to foreign U.N. diplomats and officials. The New York Police Department now has that responsibility.

But to the Russians the answer is clear; the United States doesn't need more laws, just more enforcement.

They were infuriated by the recent release on bail of a youth held in connection with the sniper attack on the Soviet mission. They say it was another example of the policy of U.S. authorities to "turn a blind eye" to such acts.

Many delegates also would like "high Washington officials," who they did not name, to stop criticizing the United Nations. And they want American news media to tone down coverage of criminals and radical groups.

Both the officials and the press, it is contended, encourage unruly people to act against foreign diplomats.

Instead, say the delegates, politicians should say nice things about the United Nations, and the press, radio and television should launch an education campaign to change American attitudes. Only a few countries—mostly Western—have avoided heavy criticism of the United States in the debate.

Discussion on possible building programs occupied the first half of the Wednesday evening meeting of the Berger Board of Governors.

Proposals of the architect, Dan Carmichael, utilizing various portions of the present hospital building or constructing an entirely new building, estimated costs to renovate and build at about $3½ million.

The basic goal of the building program is to make the hospital competitive with those in the surrounding area, not just today but in the future. During debate, Dr. J. M. Hedges noted that the important part of the building program, if it is to proceed, is an early decision that the new hospital will be developed to offer as wide a variety of specialized treatment as possible for the area, not intending to compete on the scale with Columbus hospitals, which would be impossible, but to provide adequate and essential medical service as a hospital and not a health station in Pickaway County.

Carmichael informed the Berger governing board that the present institution would be difficult and costly to renovate with the exception of the maternity wing. His scale of costs showed three different proposals to bring the building up to state requirements and provide additional space, would all cost essentially $3½ million.

FRANK Wilson of the Mid-Ohio Health Planning Federation, earlier made a similar statement in his survey of Berger Hospital, noting that current building did not lend itself to logical renovation as a hospital which will meet future state requirements.

Wilson's proposal to remodel the present structure neared a cost of $2 million, also an estimated figure. Carmichael invited board members to visit a hospital in Wadsworth, near Akron, where his firm had just completed work on a 100-bed hospital, there, similar to one he suggested building here should the board and community choose to support a new hospital building.

Administrator John Reid submitted a tentative budget to the board, suggesting a cut in expenses for the calendar year 1972. To meet the budget for $1,275,000, Reid requested the board pass a $2 increase in bed rates. The board complied, raising the hospital room rates to a low of $32 and a high of $44 effective January, 1972.

Also in financial matters, members put into effect the $700 annual salary increase which they had authorized in August, but had been halted by the President's wage freeze.

A meeting of Bob Huffer and Russ Palm from the hospital board and representatives of the medical staff was ordered to discuss methods of increasing hospital occupancy which has been lower than desirable since August. For October, the hospital showed 64 per cent occupancy, lower than September and November's figures to date are at 63 per cent.

REID noted that repairs were getting numerous and costly on the hospital's 16-year-old X-ray machine, which may require replacement soon. All hospital employees' medical insurance was expanded for almost total coverage by contract which will take effect Jan. 1, 1972.

Attending the meeting were Reid, Mayor Richard Gerhardt, Russ Palm, Mrs. Joy Myers, Howard Koch, Henry Schroeder, Dr. Robert Phillips, Harry Clifton, Dr. Hedges, Dr. Carlis Alvarez, Dr. F. W. Anderson, Bob Huffer and a guest, Mrs. Sterling Poling.

Special Traffic Tickets Issued

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Police have begun issuing 50,000 special traffic summonses—wishing motorists "a most joyous and rewarding holiday season."

The summonses look like an ordinary parking ticket but the reverse side contains a message surrounded by a green holly border. They will be given to motorists who leave their cars unlocked or valuable articles inside.

"Lock your car, pocket the keys," urges each summons, which explains larcenies of and from automobiles increase during the holiday season. The special tickets are not used as a penalty, just a reminder.

Hank Mann Dies; 'Keystone Kop'

SOUTH PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Hank Mann, believed to be the last survivor of Mack Sennett's original Keystone Kops, has died here at the age of 84.

Entering motion pictures in 1912, Mann played one of the bumbling, bowler-hatted policemen in numerous movies and made occasional character actor appearances as late as 1960.

He died Thursday at the Braewood Convalescent Hospital. Funeral services were not announced and will be private.

He is survived by his widow, Dolly.

U.N. Delegates Hint At Move From New York

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A growing number of U.N. diplomats say they have just about had it with New York City and are hinting at a move.

A delegate from Ceylon,

Christopher W. Pinto said U.N. delegates are subject to "an extraordinary form of censorship" in New York.

"It tells them: 'Let your views meet with the approval of all shades of the city's opinion or suffer at the hands of the particular group you have offended.'"

"New York is supposed to be a swinging, permissive city," said Pinto, "but where is this permissiveness when it comes to giving expression to the views of the countries represented here?"

Behind the complaints is the hint of a threat to move the world organization to another country.

The threat is nothing new, but it is being said now by more delegates and in louder voices. Representatives of countries as different as Spain and Mongolia are demanding that the U.S. government do something to improve the diplomatic lot.

The Soviet Union, a leading target of some of New York's less hospitable elements, is making a bargaining point of recent reports that the city receives large financial benefits from the U.N. presence.

The Russians, angered by a sniper attack on their mission last month, had the question of security added to the agenda of the General Assembly.

Consideration of the item in the assembly's legal committee has unleashed a torrent of speeches on the injustices of New York.

Besides the robberies, burglaries, flag rippings and demonstrations, delegates complain that New York policemen are not properly instructed on how to treat foreign diplomats.

Many also think the confusing division of authority in the United States is nonsense. It forces diplomats to deal with City Hall and the police and fire departments while they think the federal government, through the U.S. mission here, should take care of all matters pertaining to U.N. delegates.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush told the delegates that he hopes for congressional action on a State Department proposal to extend federal protection to foreign U.N. diplomats and officials. The New York Police Department now has that responsibility.

But to the Russians the answer is clear; the United States doesn't need more laws, just more enforcement.

They were infuriated by the recent release on bail of a youth held in connection with the sniper attack on the Soviet mission. They say it was another example of the policy of U.S. authorities to "turn a blind eye" to such acts.

Many delegates also would like "high Washington officials," who they did not name, to stop criticizing the United Nations. And they want American news media to tone down coverage of criminals and radical groups.

Both the officials and the press, it is contended, encourage unruly people to act against foreign diplomats.

Instead, say the delegates, politicians should say nice things about the United Nations, and the press, radio and television should launch an education campaign to change Western—have avoided heavy criticism of the United States in the debate.

Labor Chief In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany, hospitalized Thursday after he suffered chest pains, was reported "resting comfortably" early today.

Dr. Marvin Fuchs, Meany's physician, said a preliminary diagnosis indicated the 77-year-old labor leader suffered "a possible spasm in the coronary arteries."

Fuchs said Meany suffered severe chest pains Wednesday night and early Thursday but that they had disappeared by the time he was admitted to the hospital.

Meany's pulse, heart beat and blood pressure all were normal when tested at the hospital, Fuchs said.

The physician said he ordered Meany to remain in the hospital for several days because the labor leader has been "under considerable stress."

Services at the United Methodist Church are Sunday School 9:30 a.m., Morning Worship 10:30 a.m., with Rev. Carl Wetherell delivering the sermon, "They Rebuked Him."

The Junior Choir sang a beautiful number, "How Great Thou Art." At the door Nov. 28 will be Mrs. Margaret Williams and Betty Barr, with Betty Jo Becker and Cindy Weber in charge of the nursery. A nice crowd attended the Song Fest Sunday evening and members are hoping for the same at the Thanksgiving service.

Faith Baptist Church services each Sunday at 10:30 a.m. with Pastor Hohman bringing the morning message.

A 6 p.m. Youth meeting is scheduled to continue work on their play, "No Man Careth for My Soul" to be presented Dec. 12. Services will be at the same place (fire house) this winter. A new furnace was installed so the building will be nice and warm. For bus service to come to church, contact Mike and Diane Groves if you want them to pick you up. Call 875-6913 and they will be glad to.

Members are planning to fix special Christmas boxes to be sent to our boys in the service. Please contact Mrs. Kiser or Mrs. Branson. Items must be in by Dec. 8.

Mrs. Rosalee Williams recently returned from a 10-day tour of England with United Methodist Heritage Society, sponsored by West Ohio Conference with around 165 persons on this tour.

They were in London, Nottingham, the home of Robin Hood and visited Epworth home, the John Wesley homestead. They visited Bristol, Stratford on Avon, the home of Shakespeare and Ann Hathaway, also went to Shakespeare theatre. They went to Oxford, spent one day at Lincoln Christ College, Salisbury, Stonehenge — prehistoric everything was carved on the stone, even like our calendars supposed to be back in 1700 B.C.

On Sunday the tourists went to church at St. Paul Cathedral in London. They saw Winchester Castle, Hampton Court where Henry VIII lived with his wives. Bishop and Mrs. Ensley were on the trip and he gave several lectures. Rosalee visited with the Finch's Aunt Ella, sister of the late George Finch. She was very glad to hear from nieces and nephews. The trip was very interesting and educational. The day started at 5:45 a.m. and they were on the go til 11 p.m. so quite a trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Crego and family of Owensboro, Ky. are spending Thanksgiving week with relatives here.

Beth Browning from Miami University and brother Robert from Bowling Green University are spending the Thanksgiving vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Browning.

Stella Kauffeld visited last week with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kauffeld.

The Friendship Club of Daughters of America met at the home of Bertha McCain in Derby Monday. After the business meeting, the evening was spent playing bingo. Pot luck dinner was enjoyed by all present.

Cora Burnley is progressing nicely after getting his leg caught in a corn picker. They have removed the stitches and they are waiting for O.K. from her doctor, so they can start back to their winter home in Florida. If this weather keeps getting colder, bet they wish they were already there. Eva thinks they will fly down this year since Cora got hurt. Good luck. Hope you don't land in Cuba.

Mrs. Evelyn Kauffeld is at home with an ear condition resulting in loss of hearing.

Edwin Schooley is listed as "fair" at Doctors (North) room 223.

Mrs. Ed Jackson is not good at this writing, she is waiting to get into the hospital.

Harold Birkhead is suffering with double hernia and is waiting to get into the hospital also.

Vandals struck in our community again last week. They broke into the Ed Birkhead home north of town. A number of valuables were stolen. Seems vandals are getting braver as they went in broad daylight.

Fire and emergency runs: Nov. 18 — corn picker on fire at Earl Steck farm, $800 loss. Nov. 19 — Dwayne Hartley, age 5, Miller Road, possible fractured leg. Nov. 20 — Elizabeth Beavers, age 86, illness, Mercy Hospital.

W. T. Mehalick Transferred By DuPont Plant

WILLIAM T. MEHALICK

W. T. Mehalick is being transferred to the DuPont Yerkes Film Plant, Buffalo, N.Y., it was announced today by William Vaughn, DuPont Personnel supervisor.

Mehalick lives with his wife, Holly, and children Amy, David, and Laurie Ann, at 140 Reber Ave.

He joined DuPont in 1952 as a student operator with the Textile Fiber Plant, Delaware. The next year he was named foreman of the Kingston Plant, N.C. There he worked with the research lab and manufacturing departments.

He joined the Circleville plant in 1959 as a shift supervisor in the mylar division and was named assistant area supervisor in 1960.

In 1962, Mehalick was transferred to special assignment with the International DuPont plant, Wilmington, Del.

From there, he went to the Luxembourg Plant as area supervisor.

He returned to the Circleville plant in 1966 in the same capacity.

Mehalick attended the Institute of Applied Arts and Sciences, N.Y., and graduated from Wooster Poly Tech with a BS-MD in Mechanical Design.

The Mehalicks are members of the St. Joseph Church, where he is affiliated with the Knights of Columbus.

He is also a vice-president of the youth baseball program, vice-president of the Circleville High School Booster Club and a member of the Pickaway Country Club.

BEARLY FITS — John Vincent Staus of near Tarentum, Pa., shot a black bear during Pennsylvania's bear-hunting season and then had the problem of transporting him home. He stowed it in the front trunk of his compact car and headed home. Needless to say, Staus explained, "it shook up a few oncoming motorists."

Wurster Attends Enucleation Seminar, Workshop At Iowa

Randolph D. Wurster of the Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville, was one of the forty morticians from throughout the United States attending the Eye Enucleation Seminar and Workshop held at the University of Iowa College of Medicine and University Hospitals on Nov. 20 and 21.

Sponsored jointly by the Iowa Lions Eye Bank, the University Departments of Ophthalmology, Anatomy, Nursing and the Iowa Board of Funeral Director and Embalmer Examiners, this course has attracted national attention and is making hundreds of additional eyes available to the vitally important sight restoration program.

Approximately 800 sight saving corneal transplant operations have been performed at University Hospitals in Iowa City; more than 3,000 such operations are now being performed annually in hospitals throughout the nation. The restoration of sight to so many blind and potentially blind persons is a humanitarian accomplishment of major proportions, to say nothing of the great financial importance of returning the blind to a normal, productive life.

Introduced by Dr. A. Braley, Medical Director of the Iowa Lions Eye Bank, President of the Eye Bank Association of America, and an international known eye surgeon, with the assistance of Clarence G. Strub, University of Iowa Department of Anatomy, Chief Mortician, the course was initiated with a pilot class of eleven morticians about two years ago.

Approximately 200 enrollees from more than 20 states have now been trained and certified to perform this important service. Several states have now established programs similar to that developed at Iowa City or are in the process of doing so.

The Eye Enucleation Course for morticians came into existence largely because of the shortage of doctors in many parts of the state. Morticians were selected as the most logical and promising trainees because of their extensive academic preparation in the medical sciences of anatomy, microbiology, pathology and sanitation and they are strongly motivated in the area of community service and appear on the scene soon after death occurs.

The Eye Enucleation Course is one which, in addition to the proper academic background, requires intensive study and clinical experience in sterile surgical procedure. Eyes must be removed from the dead under the same rigid aseptic precautions that are observed in the hospital operating room.

Eye Enucleation Course lectures, demonstrations and clinical sessions are held in the lecture rooms, laboratories and surgical suites of the University Hospitals and the Department of Ophthalmology and Anatomy. Each trainee receives a generous amount of actual clinical experience and each is awarded a University certificate of competence upon successful completion of the course.

In presenting this program to the public emphasis is placed on the fact that morticians trained and certified for this function remove eyes only in those instances where a doctor is not readily available and only when the decedent had willed his eyes to the Eye Bank and the bequest is approved by the next of kin.

The function of the mortician is to assist the Eye Bank Program, the local physician, and the people of his community and state. This humanitarian service is provided without cost to the family of the donor, to the Eye Bank, or to the patient who receives the corneal transplant.

It is also emphasized that the enucleation operation is performed with such skill and care that removal of the eyes causes no visible disfigurement of the deceased donor.

Wurster has indicated that he will welcome the opportunity to speak to local civic, religious and fraternal groups about his new role as a paramedical participant in the Sight Restoration Program.

School Payments Are Restored

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Finance Director Harold Hovey has abandoned plans for a three per cent cut in November school foundation payments.

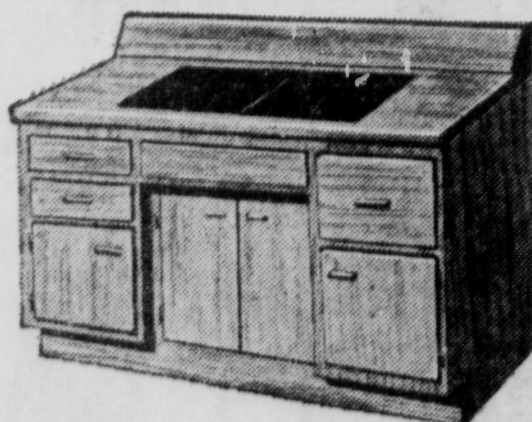

Acting on the request of the Republican-dominated State Controlling Board, Hovey said he would certify the entire allocation of $38.3 million for payment.

At the same time, Hovey contended that the Controlling Board request, added to court decisions stopping similar cuts in nursing home and welfare payments, placed Gov. John Gilligan's state austerity program "in jeopardy."

British Deal With Rhodesia Certain To Face Opposition

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative government embarked today on an uphill campaign to win acceptance of its plan to recognize Rhodesia as an independent republic by next summer.

The deal disclosed on Thursday is not likely to give control to Rhodesia's black majority until around the turn of the century but in explaining the agreement to the U.N. Security Council the British said this is probably the last chance to prevent the former colony from becoming "an appendage of South Africa."

Tough opposition seems certain to come from both labor party critics at home and Africans and Asians in the Commonwealth and United Nations. Some commentators even forecast that the coming U.N. row raised the prospect of an attempt to impose sanctions on Britain, just as the United Nations imposed sanctions against the breakaway Rhodesian regime.

But the government convinced that the deal is the best that can be won for Rhodesia's five million black Africans, is certain to push it ahead through Parliament.

Rhodesia declared itself independent Nov. 11, 1965, in defiance of British insistence that blacks must be brought to majority rule. All effective power was held by the 250,000 whites and the Rhodesian Front party headed by Prime Minister Ian Smith.

The new deal, worked out between Smith and Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, holds out a distant prospect of African rule—but sets no date.

Some British officials believe it may be achieved within 20 years. Smith himself has said it won't happen in this century. Douglas-Home, presenting his proposals to Parliament Thursday, insisted that they meet Britain's long standing demands for unimpeded progress toward African rule, with safeguards against racial discrimination and constitutional backsliding.

'Paper' Corporate Empire Bared In Credit Fraud Case

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A fugitive from Ohio is being held in the Fulton County jail here on charges stemming from an alleged scheme to defraud 300 companies around the country through an Atlanta-based phony business.

Authorities said Daniel Lee Stull, about 29, is wanted in Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, in connection with operations involving the juggling of credit.

with power boats, motorbikes, radios, panty hose and furs sent here by mail.

name of a legitimate firm, Nationwide Supply Inc. of Memphis, and set up dummy offices in several cities.

Then he ordered about $1 million worth of merchandise from some 300 companies across the country with instructions that the company be billed for it.

Detectives said Stull apparently had no intention of paying for the merchandise and expected to net $500,000 from the scheme within 90 days.

Police cracked the operation, according to detectives, when an airline ticket seller became suspicious after Stull bought a plane ticket on credit under a false name, and made a verification check with the legitimate firm.

Stull was wanted in Akron for jumping $2,500 bond and failing to serve a one-to-seven-year sentence for conviction on a larceny by trick charge.

Summit County Prosecutor Charles Lowrey said Stull had a "paper empire of corporations" there.

"No one knows how many firms he did have," Lowrey said. "He was in the business of applying for credit and he used his corporations as credit references for other corporations."

Federal marshals in Cleveland have placed a hold on Stull with authorities here.

Lowrey said Stull failed to appear in U. S. District Court in Cleveland to face bankruptcy proceedings. "He had 450 creditors against him," Lowrey said. "Their claims amount to several million dollars."

Wurster Attends Enucleation Seminar, Workshop At Iowa

Randolph D. Wurster of the Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville, was one of the forty morticians from throughout the United States attending the Eye Enucleation Seminar and Workshop held at the University of Iowa College of Medicine and University Hospitals on Nov. 20 and 21.

Sponsored jointly by the Iowa Lions Eye Bank, the University Departments of Ophthalmology, Anatomy, Nursing and the Iowa Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers Examiners, this course has attracted national attention and is making hundreds of additional eyes available to the vitally important sight restoration program.

Approximately 800 sight saving corneal transplant operations have been performed at University Hospitals in Iowa City; more than 3,000 such operations are now being performed annually in hospitals throughout the nation. The restoration of sight to so many blind and potentially blind persons is a humanitarian accomplishment of major proportions, to say nothing of the great financial importance of returning the blind to a normal, productive life.

Introduced by Dr. A. Braley, Medical Director of the Iowa Lions Eye Bank, President of the Eye Bank Association of America, and an international known eye surgeon, with the assistance of Clarence G. Strub, University of Iowa Department of Anatomy, Chief Mortician, the course was initiated with a pilot class of eleven morticians about two years ago. Approximately 200 enrollees from more than 20 states have now been trained and certified to perform this important service. Several states have now established programs similar to that developed at Iowa City or are in the process of doing so.

The Eye Enucleation Course for morticians came into existence largely because of the shortage of doctors in many parts of the state. Morticians were selected as the most logical and promising trainees because of their extensive academic preparation in the medical sciences of anatomy, microbiology, pathology and sanitation and they are strongly motivated in the area of community service and appear on the scene soon after death occurs.

The Eye Enucleation Course is one which, in addition to the proper academic background, requires intensive study and clinical experience in sterile surgical procedure. Eyes must be removed from the dead under the same rigid aseptic precautions that are observed in the hospital operating room. Eye Enucleation Course lectures, demonstrations and clinical sessions are held in the lecture rooms, laboratories and surgical suites of the University Hospitals and the Department of Ophthalmology and Anatomy. Each trainee receives a generous amount of actual clinical experience and each is awarded a University certificate of competence upon successful completion of the course.

In presenting this program to the public emphasis is placed on the fact that morticians trained and certified for this function remove eyes only in those instances where a doctor is not readily available and only when the decedent had willed his eyes to the Eye Bank and the bequest is approved by the next of kin.

The function of the mortician is to assist the Eye Bank Program, the local physician, and the people of his community and state. This humanitarian service is provided without cost to the family of the donor, to the Eye Bank, or to the patient who receives the corneal transplant.

It is also emphasized that the enucleation operation is performed with such skill and care that removal of the eyes causes no visible disfigurement of the deceased donor.

Wurster has indicated that he will welcome the opportunity to speak to local civic, religious and fraternal groups about his new role as a paramedical participant in the Sight Restoration Program.

School Payments Are Restored

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Finance Director Harold Hovey has abandoned plans for a three per cent cut in November school foundation payments.

Acting on the request of the Republican-dominated State Controlling Board, Hovey said he would certify the entire allocation of $38.3 million for payment.

At the same time, Hovey contended that the Controlling Board request, added to court decisions stopping similar cuts in nursing home and welfare payments, placed Gov. John Gilligan's state austerity program "in jeopardy."

New Form For College Tests Added

Students registering for College Board tests this fall and winter will be noticing some important changes designed to help provide them and colleges to which they may apply with a more accurate and complete picture of their interests, experiences, plans, activities and preferences.

The Student Descriptive Questionnaire (SDQ) is a new and optional feature of the Admissions Testing Program, to be filled out at the time of test registration. It will be the basis for expanded student, school, and college reports that will be produced this year. The SDQ is a detailed series of questions about a student's activities, interests, and plans. It gives him (or her) a chance to add considerable information to the regular test score data that has been available.

The questionnaire is printed in the 1971-72 ATP Bulletin of Information, and the SDQ response sheet is in the same envelope as the Registration Form for the Scholastic Aptitude Test and Achievement tests. Students answer as many SDQ questions as they wish and then return their Response Sheet with their registration forms and test fee. But students do not have to return the SDQ Response Sheet in order to take the SAT or Achievement tests. Students will be receiving their 1971-72 ATP reports by mail.

Both student and high school ATP reports can provide tentative answers to some important questions in 1971-72. For example, the report of a student who answers the SDQ questions about the student's family financial situation will contain estimates of whether the student has no need, some need, or considerable need for financial aid at four levels of college costs. (These estimates however, will not appear on the high school report.)

If a student answers the SDQ questions about high school grades and class rank, and the necessary data are available from the colleges, both the student's and the high school's report will contain estimates of the student's chances of receiving certain grades at the colleges to which the student has ATP reports sent. In addition, when such colleges provide the necessary data, both student and high school reports will contain percentile ranks comparing the student's high school performance and ATP test scores with those of applicants accepted for admission in previous years.

Wes Edstrom Jr. Proves Valuable To Marching Band

By LYN JACOBS

Some people in this world do things not because they want money or recognition, but simply because they like to help people out. Wes Edstrom, whose daughter Chris is a member of the CHS band, is one of these people.

Mr. Edstrom has spent much of his time the past few years assisting the band. A very outstanding and dedicated band booster, he was made an honorary member of the Tiger band last year. This award was created especially for him by band members who wanted to show their appreciation for all that he had done for them.

WES EDSTROM

One of Mr. Edstrom's contributions to the band this year was the time and effort he spent hauling band instruments in his van to all the away football games, parades and contests. Even when there was no specific task for him to do, he was there and ready to help out with any problems that might arise. If a member of the band became sick during a performance, he would help take care of them. If a piece of music or part of a uniform or band instrument was left behind or lost, Mr. Edstrom would make sure it was retrieved. During special half

All-SCOL Honors Given

By CRAIG ALLISON

On November 14 the head and assistant football coaches of the South Central Ohio League met in Washington Senior High School's cafeteria to pick the All SCOL football team for the 1971 season.

Leading the defensive team from Circleville is honorary captain, Mark Davey, anchoring the line at middle guard. Beside Davey stands senior linebacker Mike Hamrick. And defending the tackle spot is Tom Frericks, a junior letterman in the Circleville grid program. Manning the position of defensive end is Don Valentine, captain of the Circleville Tigers and rounding out the All-SCOL defensive picks from Circleville is junior letterman Dave Webb.

The only Tiger to secure an offensive position on the league team is Tom Shea, who was the leading scorer on the Circleville football team.

DE Student Of The Week

By KAREN LITTEN

Rosemary Good, DECA student of the week, thinks that Distributive Education is a good program for students to "learn a lot of things both in class and on the job." She would "recommend it to anyone interested in the field of marketing and distribution."

Rosemary resides at 363 Walnut Street with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Good, her brother Kenny and her three sisters, Anna-Marie, Ruth and Marilyn.

After graduation she would like to continue working with Pittsburgh Plate Glass Inc., her present place of employment. At the moment she works 17½ hours each week.

Among her school activities are SOS, EMS and DECA. Rosemary holds the office of Secretary of the DECA II club.

MRS. BETTY GATES

By DONNA A. IMLER

With more students enrolled at CHS every year, a new face has been added to the office staff to help with the increased work.

That new person is Mrs. Betty Gates. She resides at 290 Lewis Road. She has four children — three have graduated from CHS and one is attending Atwater.

Some of her duties are answering the telephone, typing, sorting mail and other general office work.

When asked her opinion of the students at CHS she replied, "They're all great."

Mrs. Gates likes reading and children of all ages.

Welcome Student From Florida

New to the senior class at CHS is Betty Wears.

Betty moved to Circleville from Pompano Beach, Fla., last January, and presently resides at Neuding's Trailer Court with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wears, three brothers and six sisters finish out Betty's family.

CHS is much different from the last school she attended. Betty commented that although there were "more people to associate with in Pompano, the move here was easy. CHS has a lot more school activity and much more school spirit."

In her spare time, Betty likes to oil paint, and she lists swimming as one of her favorite past times. After graduation, she plans to return to Florida and finish modeling school.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Following is the official weather summary for Ohio from the National Weather Service:

High temperatures ranged from the upper 30s to lower 40s over Ohio Thanksgiving Day with readings generally dropping into the 20s early today. Skies varied from clear over southern Ohio to cloudy over northern sections.

A new low pressure system forming over the central part of the nation is expected to intensify as it moves eastward into Ohio Saturday bringing with it showers starting this afternoon changing to rain tonight. Rain is likely over most of the state continuing into Saturday.

Southerly winds over the state today and tonight will allow temperatures to climb into the 40s. Tonight's readings will not be as cool as earlier in the week, dropping only into the 30s. On Saturday temperatures again should be mostly in the 40s, but with a trend toward cooler weather beginning in the afternoon.

FORECAST

OHIO — Variable cloudiness and a little warmer today, chance of showers west portion this afternoon spreading to east portion by evening. High today in the 40s. Rain or showers likely tonight and Saturday. Not so cool tonight, low in the 30s. High Saturday in the middle to upper 40s, but turning cooler during the afternoon.

NORTHWEST INLAND, WEST LAKE SHORE, WEST CENTRAL, CENTRAL and SOUTHWEST — Variable cloudiness and a little warmer today, chance of showers this afternoon, high in the 40s. Rain or showers likely tonight and Saturday. Not so cool tonight low in the 30s. High Saturday in the middle to upper 40s turning cooler during the afternoon. Probability of precipitation 50 per cent today 70 per cent tonight and 60 per cent Saturday.

EAST LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST INLAND, EAST CENTRAL and SOUTHEAST — Variable cloudiness and a little warmer today, chance of showers by late this afternoon high in the 40s. Rain or showers likely tonight and Saturday. Not so cool tonight low in the 30s. High Saturday in the middle to upper 40s turning cooler by late in the day. Probability of precipitation 30 per cent today and 70 per cent tonight and Saturday.

Allen Berger, Attorney November 12, 19 26; Dec. 3 and 10

Books and articles have been written that are highly critical of the quality of life in the affluent suburbs, the executive dormitories surrounding the nation's big cities. "CBS Report's" treatment had members of one family talking about their day-by-day existence, their fears and their hopes. It was a devastating hour.

Sam Greenawalt, a bank executive in his early 40s, told of working 10-and 12-hour days under pressures that literally sweated his brow. His wife, Jane, caught up in a whirl of volunteer activities, earnestly analyzed her personal search for identity.

Despite a big, handsome house, the family felt a vital need for their remote weekend place where they found real relaxation and functioned as a family.

The program was concerned specifically with life in Birmingham, Mich., a rich, white community 16 miles from Detroit. It told the story of Birmingham in terms of the Greenawalts and their three children ages of 14, 12 and 10. Implicit in the frank talk was that, in spite of financial success, status and security, somehow happiness and contentment were eluding them.

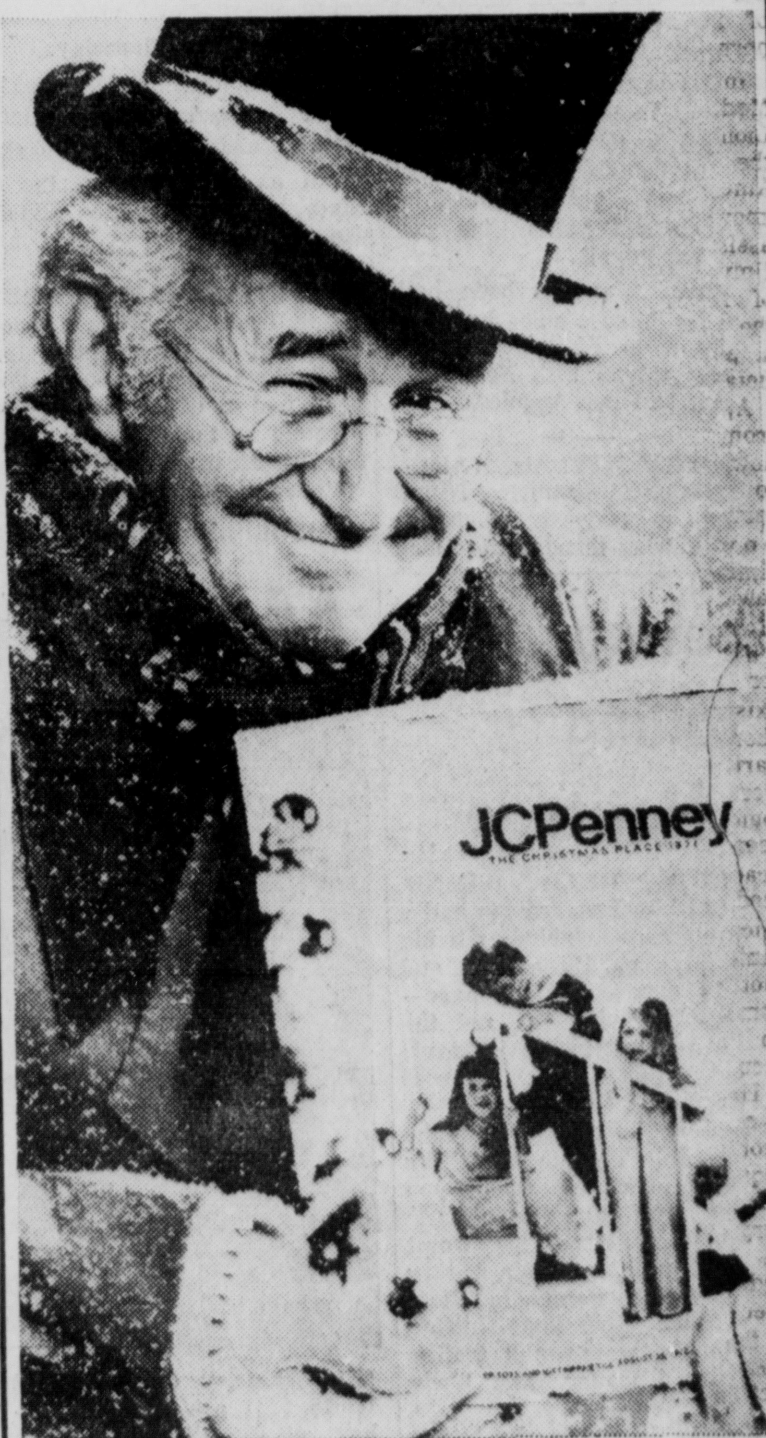

Narrated by Charles Kuralt, the program made its point: That when the American dream of success, pursued intensely, has been achieved, it is not enough and a new, grander dream takes the old one's place—and the climb up continues.

The fault of the program was that it left the impression that every family who has made it to similarly situated suburbs finds the same emptiness and conformity.

New Form For College Tests Added

Students registering for College Board tests this fall and winter will be noticing some important changes designed to help provide them and colleges to which they may apply with a more accurate and complete picture of their interests, experiences, plans, activities and prospects.

The Student Descriptive Questionnaire (SDQ) is a new and optional feature of the Admissions Testing Program, to be filled out at the time of test registration. It will be the basis for expanded student, school, and college reports that will be produced this year. The SDQ is a detailed series of questions about a student's activities, interests, and plans. It gives him (or her) a chance to add considerable information to the regular test score data that has been available.

The questionnaire is printed in the 1971-72 ATP Bulletin of Information, and the SDQ response sheet is in the same envelope as the Registration Form for the Scholastic Aptitude Test and Achievement tests. Students answer as many SDQ questions as they wish and then return their Response Sheet with their registration forms and test fee. But students do not have to return the SDQ Response Sheet in order to take the SAT or Achievement tests. Students will be receiving their 1971-72 ATP reports by mail.

Both student and high school ATP reports can provide tentative answers to some important questions in 1971-72. For example, the report of a student who answers the SDQ questions about the student's family financial situation will contain estimates of whether the student has no need, some need, or considerable need for financial aid at four levels of college costs. (These estimates however, will not appear on the high school report.)

If a student answers the SDQ questions about high school grades and class rank, and the necessary data are available from the colleges, both the student's and the high school's report will contain estimates of the student's chances of receiving certain grades at the colleges to which the student has ATP reports sent. In addition, when such colleges provide the necessary data, both student and high school reports will contain percentile ranks comparing the student's high school performance and ATP test scores with those of applicants accepted for admission in previous years.

Wes Edstrom Jr. Proves Valuable To Marching Band

By LYN JACOBS

Some people in this world do things not because they want money or recognition, but simply because they like to help people out. Wes Edstrom, whose daughter Chris is a member of the CHS band, is one of these people.

Mr. Edstrom has spent much of his time the past few years assisting the band. A very outstanding and dedicated band booster, he was made an honorary member of the Tiger band last year. This award was created especially for him by band members who wanted to show their appreciation for all that he had done for them.

WES EDSTROM

One of Mr. Edstrom's contributions to the band this year was the time and effort he spent hauling band instruments in his van to all the away football games, parades and contests. Even when there was no specific task for him to do, he was there and ready to help out with any problems that might arise. If a member of the band became sick during a performance, he would help take care of them. If a piece of music or part of a uniform or band instrument was left behind or lost, Mr. Edstrom would make sure it was retrieved. During special half

All-SCOL Honors Given

By CRAIG ALLISON

On November 14 the head and assistant football coaches of the South Central Ohio League met in Washington Senior High School's cafeteria to pick the All SCOL football team for the 1971 season.

Leading the defensive team from Circleville is honorary co-captain, Mark Davey, anchoring the line at middle guard. Beside Davey stands senior linebacker Mike Hamrick. And defending the tackle spot is Tom Frericks, a junior letterman in the Circleville grid program. Manning the position of defensive end is Don Valentine, captain of the Circleville Tigers and rounding out the All-SCOL defensive picks from Circleville is junior letterman Dave Webb.

The only Tiger to secure an offensive position on the league team is Tom Shea, who was the leading scorer on the Circleville football team.

Personable Woman Joins Office Staff

MRS. BETTY GATES

By DONNA A. IMLER
With more students enrolled at CHS every year, a new face has been added to the office staff to help with the increased work.

That new person is Mrs. Betty Gates. She resides at 290 Lewis Road. She has four children — three have graduated from CHS and one is attending Atwater.

Some of her duties are answering the telephone, typing, sorting mail and other general office work.

Mrs. Gates likes reading and children of all ages.

Welcome Student From Florida

By CAROL HODGES

New to the senior class at CHS is Betty Wears. Betty moved to Circleville from Pompano Beach, Fla., last January, and presently resides at Neuding's Trailer Court with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wears, three brothers and six sisters finish out Betty's family.

CHS is much different from the last school she attended. Betty commented that although there were "more people to associate with in Pompano, the move here was easy. CHS has a lot more school activity and much more school spirit."

In her spare time, Betty likes to oil paint, and she lists swimming as one of her favorite past times. After graduation, she plans to return to Florida and finish modeling school.

Years Change Traditional Thanksgiving

By LINDA CORDLE

In 1621 the Pilgrims celebrated the first Thanksgiving Day. It was a day set aside to thank God for the bountiful harvests and for all He had given them. The first official Thanksgiving Day was proclaimed in 1863.

When Abraham Lincoln was president, he designated the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day. It remained so until 1939 when Franklin D. Roosevelt said it would be the fourth Thursday in November in order to give retail stores a longer "Christmas buying season." Still some state governors said it to be the last Thursday, so, in 1941 Congress passed a law saying that the fourth Thursday of November would be the national holiday to celebrate Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving is a busy day whether you are preparing for company or going to visit friends and relatives. But sometime between stuffing the turkey, eating, and watching football games, we must take time to thank God for all the blessings he has bestowed upon us: our country, our homes, our freedom, and all the other things He has provided for us. In Galatians 5:20 it says, "Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Jack Fouts Named OC Coach Of Year

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—Jack Fouts, who led Ohio Wesleyan to the Ohio Conference football championship, has been elected the league's Coach of the year by his fellow mentors.

With the OC title, Wesleyan won a trip to the Stagg Bowl Thanksgiving Day at Phenix City, Ala., in which the Bishops fell to Samford University 20-10.

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Following is the official weather summary for Ohio from the National Weather Service:

High temperatures ranged from the upper 30s to lower 40s over Ohio Thanksgiving Day with readings generally dropping into the 20s early today. Skies varied from clear over southern Ohio to cloudy over northern sections.

A new low pressure system forming over the central part of the nation is expected to intensify as it moves eastward into Ohio Saturday bringing with it showers starting this afternoon changing to rain tonight. Rain is likely over most of the state continuing into Saturday.

Southerly winds over the state today and tonight will allow temperatures to climb into the 40s. Tonight's readings will not be as cool as earlier in the week, dropping only into the 30s. On Saturday temperatures again should be mostly in the 40s, but with a trend toward cooler weather beginning in the afternoon.

ROSEMARY GOOD

DE Student Of The Week

By KAREN LITTEN

Rosemary Good, DECA student of the week, thinks that Distributive Education is a good program for students to "learn a lot of things both in class and on the job." She would "recommend it to anyone interested in the field of marketing and distribution."

Rosemary resides at 363 Walnut Street with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Good, her brother Kenny and her three sisters, Anna-Marie, Ruth and Marilyn.

After graduation she would like to continue working with Pittsburgh Plate Glass Inc., her present place of employment. At the moment she works 17½ hours each week.

Among her school activities are SOS, EMS and DECA. Rosemary holds the office of Secretary of the DECA II club.

Circleville Drops Tough Battle To Chillicothe, 67-63

A fourth quarter rally by the Tigers was just a little short as Circleville dropped a hard fought battle to Chillicothe, 67-63, Wednesday night on the Cavaliers' court.

Trailing by 11 points going into the fourth stanza the Tigers fought back against the tall Cavaliers and cut the gap to 64-63 with 43 seconds left in the game.

At this point Terry Morrison stole the ball and drove for the bucket for what would have been the go ahead basket. The shot was blocked ruled clean by one of the officials, underneath by a tall Cavalier and the Tigers' hopes went with it.

CONFUSION took over at this point as the Tigers called time out. The clock continued to run out and jubilant Chillicothe fans poured onto the floor.

The error was caught, the floor was cleared and the clock set back to 12 seconds. However, the Tigers ran out of time before they could get any additional points on the board.

It was a nip and tuck contest in the first half with Circleville trailing 17-15 at the end of the first quarter. The Tigers had jumped off to a 7-4 lead in the period that saw the score knotted three times.

Circleville hit on 24 of 58 shots from the field and connected on 15 of 20 charity tosses.

Nebraska Tops Oklahoma 35-31; Wins National Title

By ALEX SACHARE Associated Press Sports Writer Will there be a national college football championship game on New Year's Day?

If so, it will take place in Miami on the night of Jan. 1, when Nebraska and Alabama clash in the Orange Bowl.

Nebraska maintained its position on top of the heap by defeating second-ranked Oklahoma 35-31 Thursday. Fullback Jeff Kinney, who scored four touchdowns for the Cornhuskers, climaxed a 74-yard march in the closing moments of the fourth quarter with a two-yard touchdown plunge to give unbeaten Nebraska its 11th victory of the season.

Alabama, 10-0 and ranked third, could move up a notch Saturday. But the Crimson Tide has to get past fifth-ranked Auburn, and its Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Pat Sullivan, in their battle at Birmingham, Ala.

In Thursday's other big games, No. 12 Texas 8-2, clinched the Southwest Conference championship and a berth in the Cotton Bowl against Penn State by scoring four first half touchdowns and going on to defeat Texas A&M 34-14.

Mississippi, 9-2, ranked 18th and headed for the Peach Bowl against Georgia Tech, exploded for six touchdowns in the second period—three of them scored on runs by tailback Gregg Ainsworth—and whipped Mississippi State 48-0.

In Thursday night's top game, seventh-ranked Georgia, 10-1, came from behind to defeat Georgia Tech 28-24. Georgia's sophomore quarterback, Andy Johnson, led his team on a 65-yard scoring drive in the final 1:29, Jimmy Poulos scoring the winning touchdown from one yard out with 14 seconds left on the clock.

But the biggest game of the day was played in Norman, Okla. The Sooners' vaunted Wishbone-T proved it could move the ball against the Nebraska defense—which had been rated first in the nation—but Nebraska showed that its offense was nothing to be ashamed of.

Eastern Trips Logan Elm Braves 81-80 Wednesday

By PUNK JONES Herald Sports Writer Logan Elm was edged by Eastern Wednesday 81-80 in a tight game at Eastern High School.

Doug Davis was the leading scorer for the Eagles with 27 points. Davis was assisted in scoring by Dave Dobbins sinking 20 and Rick Nance with 22. Davis also led his team in rebounding with six.

Tom Sykes led the Braves in scoring and rebounding burning the nets for 31 points and charging the boards with ten rebounds. Tim Justice, Doug Barnett, and Alex Jones followed Sykes in double figures with Justice firing in 10, Jones, 13, and Barnett 15. Also scoring for the Braves were Bill McKnight with 7 and Gary Benner with 4.

Logan Elm shot 50.7 per cent from the field, made 17 of 19 free throws for 88.9 per cent and collected 29 rebounds. Eastern made 36.7 per cent of their shots from the field, sank 23 of 28 foul shots for 82.1 per cent and grabbed 21 rebounds. The big difference in the game was turnovers with Logan Elm committing 26 and Eastern only making 13.

Logan Elm battled the Eagles during the first quarter of play with the Braves on top 20-18. Then Sykes scored 12 of his 31 points in the second quarter but the Eastern team went in at halftime with a two point lead 44-42. Doug Barnett came off the bench in the third quarter to keep the Braves in the game by sinking 11 of his 15 points ending the quarter with Logan Elm in front 64-59. Logan Elm gained a ten point lead at one time in the last quarter but the lead quickly dwindled in the closing minutes as Eastern scored on Logan Elm turnovers.

The game ended with the Eagles edging the Braves 81-80. The Eastern reserve team downed the little Braves 57-41. Terry Crumley led Logan Elm in scoring with 11 points followed by Steve Sargent who scored 10.

Logan Elm will host Unioto Dec. 3, at Logan Elm.

Viking Cagers Open At Trace

Lack of height and depth will be the prime concern of Coach Bob Hoover when he sends the 1971-72 edition of the Teays Valley Vikings against Miami Trace Friday night on the Panthers' court.

Four lettermen are back to form the nucleus of the 11-man Blue and Gold cage team.

Returning are seniors Jeff Sheets, 6-foot-2 forward; Jack Brinker, 6-foot-1 center; Randy Nungester, 5-foot-10 guard and Steve Bumgarner, 5-foot-9 guard.

Juniors making their bid for varsity berths are Jim Pabst, 6-foot-1 forward; Dave Chaffin, 6-foot forward; Jerry Sabine, 5-foot-10 guard; Tim Triance, 6-foot-1 center and Curt Fannin, 6-foot forward.

CRAIG Pontius, 5-foot-10 guard and Jim Logsdon, 6-foot-3 center, are sophomore members of the squad.

The Vikings will attempt to offset the lack of height with good shooting ability and a set pattern offense.

On defense the Blue and Gold will rely on a sticky man to man to counter the opponents' offense.

Coach Hoover feels it is a club that will develop as the season rolls along and is optimistic about their chances.

The Metropolitan league is expected to be strong this year with all teams battling for the league crown.

Bill Lewis will handle the session on Thursday.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The official business gets underway Monday morning sharp—but that won't be the only business at this year's winter baseball meetings.

Dan Beverly added a bucket and a foul with 12 seconds remaining to run the count to 67-63.

CONFUSION took over at this point as the Tigers called time out. The clock continued to run out and jubilant Chillicothe fans poured onto the floor.

The error was caught, the floor was cleared and the clock set back to 12 seconds. However, the Tigers ran out of time before they could get any additional points on the board.

It was a nip and tuck contest in the first half with Circleville trailing 17-15 at the end of the first quarter. The Tigers had jumped off to a 7-4 lead in the period that saw the score knotted three times.

Chillicothe held a narrow 37-36 margin at halftime but a third quarter that saw the Cavaliers outscore Circleville 19 to 9 was the downfall of the Tigers.

Although giving up quite a bit of size to the Cavaliers, Circleville came up with some fine defense and rebounding to make it a real battle.

The Tigers worked hard on the boards pulling down 28 rebounds while the Cavaliers managed to come away with 29 missed shots.

Morrison led the Tigers with five from the floor and five from the charity line for a total of 15 for the evening.

Dan Graham and Mike Hamrick each added 10, Dave Mehalik and Don Valentine had eight apiece, Dave Truex had five, Scott Clifton three and Jim Neal and Kent Wolfe each had two points to account for the Tigers' scoring.

Dan Beverly led all scorers with 11 from the field and three from the free throw line for 25 markers.

Joe Beverly added 16, Kevin Blevins had seven, Mark Bayless and Jim Kuhner each had six, Dave Mahaffey four, Mike Ratzlaff two and Alan Lemley had one for the Cavaliers.

Rebounding honors went to Circleville's reserve squad dropped a 53-33 decision to Chillicothe Wednesday night on the Cavaliers' court.

The little Tigers couldn't get their offense in gear and were outscored 24 to 11 from the floor.

Chillicothe jumped off to a 19-11 lead at the end of the first quarter, put the game on ice in the second period when the Tigers only tallied one point to trail 33-12 at halftime.

The Tigers battled on even terms in the third canto but were behind 45-22 at the conclusion of the stanza and lost 53-33 at the final whistle.

Kris Kline led Circleville with 12 points, John Ankrum added 10, Kevin Woods had three, Robin Ott and Dan Goeller had two apiece and Radabaugh each added one to the Tigers' total.

Jim Guase was the big man for Chillicothe with 17 markers. Circleville will take on the Westfall reserves Saturday night at the Mill St. gym.

Dan Beverly with nine while Dave Mehalik pulled down seven to lead a Tiger team effort on the boards.

Circleville hit on 24 of 58 shots from the field and connected on 15 of 20 charity tosses.

CHILICOTHE meshed 29 of 57 from the hardwood and had nine of 20 from the free throw line.

In the turnover department Circleville had 10 and Chillicothe misplayed the ball 13 times.

Circleville hit on the first three shots from the floor and added three fouls to hold a 9-7 lead midway through the first quarter.

Two buckets by Dan Beverly, a shot by Joe Beverly and a pair of fouls by Mahaffey countered a shot by Clifton to give the Cavaliers a 15-11 lead with 1:12 left in the first period.

Graham hit from the corner to cut the gap to 15-13 but a bucket by Bayless put the Cavaliers up by four.

Mehalik ripped the nets from the corner to cut the lead to 17-15 at the conclusion of the canto.

BOTH squads battled on even terms in the second frame and went to the locker rooms with Chillicothe holding a 37-36 margin.

The third quarter proved disastrous to the Tigers as they came up with a meager nine points while the Cavaliers hit the hoop for 19. Circleville failed to score until the four minute mark in the frame.

With Morrison beginning to find the range the scrappy Tigers made their move in the final canto. The blond whirlwind hit two buckets and a pair of fouls which coupled with a host from the corner by Truex cut the margin to 58-53 with 6:30 remaining.

Baskets by Mahaffey and Dan Beverly upped the count to 62-53 but baskets by Hamrick, Morrison and Mehalik cut the lead to 62-59 with 3:01 left in the game.

Fouls by Clifton and Morrison offset a bucket by Joe Beverly and it was 64-61 with 1:12 still on the clock.

A steal and bucket by Morrison on a freeze attempt put the Tigers within one point with 0:43 still on the clock.

ANOTHER steal by Morrison almost pulled the game out of the fire but the controversial call on the blocked shot put the game in the Cavaliers' win column.

Dan Beverly added a bucket and foul with 12 seconds left and the Tigers had dropped their season opener.

"We played a fine defensive game and worked the boards well," Circleville coach John Lawhorn commented, "but didn't move the ball on offense."

Circleville will be back in action Saturday night when they take on the hot shooting Westfall Mustangs at the Mill St. gym.

Viking Cagers Open At Trace

Lack of height and depth will be the prime concern of Coach Bob Hoover when he sends the 1971-72 edition of the Teays Valley Vikings against Miami Trace Friday night on the Panthers' court.

Four lettermen are back to form the nucleus of the 11-man Blue and Gold cage team.

Returning are seniors Jeff Sheets, 6-foot-2 forward; Jack Brinker, 6-foot-1 center; Randy Nungester, 5-foot-10 guard and Steve Bumgarner, 5-foot-9 guard.

Juniors making their bid for varsity berths are Jim Pabst, 6-foot-1 forward; Dave Chaffin, 6-foot forward; Jerry Sabine, 5-foot-10 guard; Tim Triance, 6-foot-1 center and Curt Fannin, 6-foot forward.

CRAIG Pontius, 5-foot-10 guard and Jim Logsdon, 6-foot-3 center, are sophomore members of the squad.

The Vikings will attempt to offset the lack of height with good shooting ability and a set pattern offense.

On defense the Blue and Gold will rely on a sticky man to man to counter the opponents' offense.

Coach Hoover feels it is a club that will develop as the season rolls along and is optimistic about their chances.

The Metropolitan league is expected to be strong this year with all teams battling for the league crown.

Bengals Get Ready For Chargers

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Bengals coach Paul Brown says he's pleased with the "fervor" the team has shown during practices this week including a Thanksgiving Day workout.

"I think it's a combination of two victories, which always makes practice a little easier, and the challenge that the San Diego team will present this Sunday," Brown said after the session on Thursday.

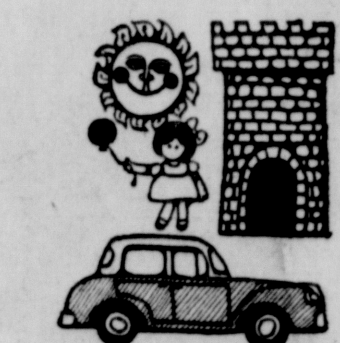

The Bengals, who stand 3-7 now despite an earlier seven-game losing streak, will play host to the Chargers, the leading offensive team in the National Football League.

The Chargers have been led by 10-year veteran quarterback John Hadl but they have 39 players on their 40-man roster with five years experience or less. The figure includes 12 rookies.

San Diego also has a new man as head coach — Harland Svare, who says he plans to hold the position only on an interim basis. He replaced veteran coach Sid Gillman, who resigned on Monday.

Although Gillman won't be with the team, the Chargers will still be seeking revenge for the Bengals' 17-14 victory over them last year. Cincinnati also won one of two games with San Diego in 1969, while the Chargers took both games in 1968.

Nebraska Tops Oklahoma 35-31; Wins National Title

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Will there be a national college football championship game on New Year's Day?

If so, it will take place in Miami on the night of Jan. 1, when Nebraska and Alabama clash in the Orange Bowl.

Nebraska maintained its position on top of the heap by defeating second-ranked Oklahoma 35-31 Thursday. Fullback Jeff Kinney, who scored four touchdowns for the Cornhuskers, climaxed a 74-yard march in the closing moments of the fourth quarter with a 100-yard touchdown plunge to give unbeaten Nebraska its 11th victory of the season.

Alabama, 10-0 and ranked third, could move up a notch Saturday. But the Crimson Tide has to get past fifth-ranked Auburn, and its Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback Pat Sullivan, in their battle at Birmingham, Ala.

In Thursday's other big games, No. 12 Texas 8-2, clinched the Southwest Conference championship and a berth in the Cotton Bowl against Penn State by scoring four first half touchdowns and going on to defeat Texas A&M 34-14.

Mississippi, 9-2, ranked 18th and headed for the Peach Bowl against Georgia Tech, exploded for six touchdowns in the second period—three of them scored on runs by tailback Gregg Ainsworth—and whipped Mississippi State 48-0.

In Thursday night's top game, seventh-ranked Georgia, 10-1, came from behind to defeat Georgia Tech 28-24. Georgia's sophomore quarterback, Andy Johnson, led his team on a 65-yard scoring drive in the final 1:29, Jimmy Poulos scoring the winning touchdown from one yard out with 14 seconds left on the clock.

But the biggest game of the day was played in Norman, Okla. The Sooners' vaunted Wishbone-T proved it could move the ball against the Nebraska defense—which had been rated first in the nation—but Nebraska showed that its offense was nothing to be ashamed of.

Kinney, who carried the ball 22 times for 154 yards in the second half, scored on touchdown runs of one, three, one and two yards. His coach, Bob Devaney, called it "as fine a job of carrying the football as I've ever seen."

Eastern Trips Logan Elm Braves 81-80 Wednesday

By PUNK JONES
Herald Sports Writer

Logan Elm was edged by Eastern Wednesday 81-80 in a tight game at Eastern High School.

Doug Davis was the leading scorer for the Eagles with 27 points. Davis was assisted in scoring by Dave Dobbins, sinking 20 and Rick Nance with 22. Davis also led his team in rebounding with six.

Tom Sykes led the Braves in scoring and rebounding burning the nets for 31 points and charging the boards with ten rebounds. Tim Justice, Doug Barnett, and Alex Jones followed Sykes in double figures with Justice firing in 10, Jones, 13, and Barnett 15. Also scoring for the Braves were Bill McKnight with 7 and Gary Benner with 4.

Logan Elm shot 50.7 per cent from the field, made 17 of 19 free throws for 88.9 per cent and collected 29 rebounds. Eastern made 36.7 per cent of their shots from the field, sank 23 of 28 foul shots for 82.1 per cent and grabbed 21 rebounds. The big difference in the game was turnovers with Logan Elm committing 26 and Eastern only making 13.

Logan Elm battled the Eagles during the first quarter of play with the Braves on top 20-15. Then Sykes scored 12 of his 31 points in the second quarter but the Eastern team went in at halftime with a two point lead 44-42.

Doug Barnett came off the bench in the third quarter to keep the Braves in the game by sinking 11 of his 15 points ending the quarter with Logan Elm in front 64-59. Logan Elm gained a ten point lead at one time in the last quarter but the lead quickly dwindled in the closing minutes as Eastern scored on Logan Elm turnovers. The game ended with the Eagles edging the Braves 81-80. The Eastern reserve team downed the little Braves 57-41. Terry Crumley led Logan Elm in scoring with 11 points followed by Steve Sargent who scored 10.

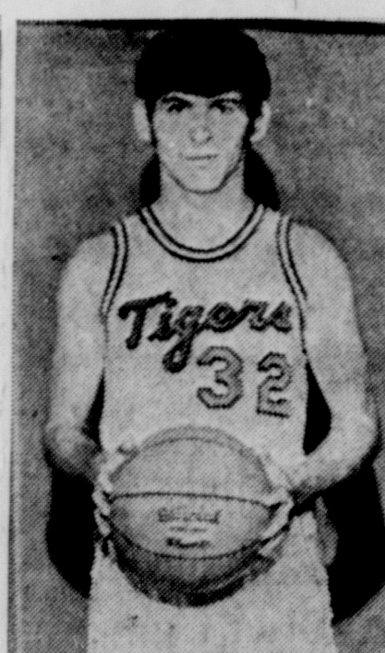

Logan Elm will host Unioto Dec. 3, at Logan Elm.

Trevino Trailing In Heritage

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Lee Trevino had a 78 to his credit, including a big eight on a par-three hole, and was 10 strokes off the pace—but his head was up and the grin in place going into today's second round in the $110,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

"I'm not discouraged," the irrepressible Trevino said. "It's the kind of course where you can make up ground fast."

Trevino matched his worst round of the year in his watery effort over the demanding Harbor Town Golf links—hitting four in the water—and trailed first round leader Hale Irvin by 10 strokes.

Irwin, a longshot who hasn't led before this season and has yet to win in four years on the pro tour, fired a solid, three-under-par 68 on the seaside, 6,655-yard layout and took sole control of the top spot when Arnold Palmer bogeyed the final hole.

"I'm generally pretty well satisfied and played reasonably well," said Palmer, who is enjoying one of his better seasons at the age of 42. "But it made me mad as hell to bogey that last hole."

He was tied with Dave Eichelberger, a 28-year-old Texan who has come into his own this season after a five-year struggle. Each had a 69.

Bob Smith and Rod Curl followed at 70 and were the only other players able to break par on the testing, treacherous layout.

Grid Forecasters See Baltimore Over Raiders

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The defending Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts are in a precarious position, 1½ games behind front-running Miami and facing the Oakland Raiders.

But they will maintain their shot at overhauling the Dolphins in American Conference East by upsetting the Raiders in one of the key games on an 11-game Sunday-Monday program.

That, at least, is the view from here—a view that also opens on a Buffalo victory over New England that will end the Bills' perfect record after 10 consecutive defeats.

Here are all the picks, noting that last week's record was a best-of-the season 9-4:

Baltimore 24, Oakland 17—The AFC West leading Raiders lead the league in scoring and Daryle Lamonica leads the league in attempting to score via the bomb. The Colts' zone defense, however, knows how to de-fuse that type attack. Baltimore did just that in last year's AFC championship.

Miami 31, Chicago 20—There don't seem to be any stopping the Dolphins with the best record in the NFL, a seven-game winning streak and all those weapons—Bob Griese, Paul Warfield, Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick. Monday night TV, ABC, 9 p.m., EST.

Minnesota 14, Atlanta 10—Former Minnesota Coach Norm Van Brocklin returns to the land of the frigid north with his Falcons and the NFC Central leading Vikings should be ready for a cool reception with their awesome defense.

Washington 24, Philadelphia 21—The Redskins' Over-The-Hill Gang is 1-3-1 in last five games and Eagles' Beardless Wonders are 3-1-1.

San Francisco 27, New York Jets 24—Assuming John Brodie stays mostly on the ground with NFC West contending 49ers and Joe Namath stays mostly on the sidelines. Jets' defenses confusing passers.

Cleveland 23, Houston 14—LeRoy Kelly gallops through Oilers for another 100-yard day as Browns remain in AFC Central race with Steelers.

Green Bay 21, New Orleans 17—John Brockington will do for the Packers against the Saints what Kelly does for the Browns.

New York Giants 28, St. Louis 17—Fran Tarkenton playing extremely well. Cardinals playing poorly.

Cincinnati 28, San Diego 24—Bengals playing effectively since Virgil Carter's return. Chargers may be scrambled with Sid Gillman's resignation.

Buffalo 33, New England 30—The Patriots just squeezed by the last time they met, but it's on Buffalo's home grounds this time.

Hauck, the area Class AAA coach of the year, guided Mount Healthy to an 8-0-1 record.

Gregg swept the Class AA honors in the district, directing Dayton Jefferson to a 10-0 season and a sixth straight Dayton Suburban League title.

Peirano, selected the district Class A mentor of the year, led Southeastern to an 8-1 record and a share of the Darby Valley League championship with Plain City Alder.

Jim Kelly, an end who caught a school record 49 passes for Cincinnati Moeller this fall, was the No. 1 Class AAA lineman in the district.

In Class A, Dennis Cain of

Whip Seattle, 139-115

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers, boasting a 12-game winning streak, are threatening to break open the Pacific Division race in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers, in setting a team record for consecutive victories, whipped the Seattle SuperSonics 139-115 Thursday night to open a 4½ game lead over the Golden State Warriors, who bowed to the Philadelphia 76ers 112-111. Los Angeles' worst mark is 18-3.

In the only other game, the Phoenix Suns turned back the Detroit Pistons 122-113.

BASES LOADED — As anyone can see, those aren't baseball players on the infield and outfield of the Cincinnati Reds' old Crosley Field. The city is now using the field to store automobiles impounded for non-payment of parking violation fees. There are more than 500 on the field where the Reds once cavorted. Team now plays in a new stadium.

Grid Forecasters See Baltimore Over Raiders

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The defending Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts are in a precarious position, 1½ games behind front-running Miami and facing the Oakland Raiders.

But they will maintain their shot at overhauling the Dolphins in American Conference East by upsetting the Raiders in one of the key games on an 11-game Sunday-Monday program.

That, at least, is the view from here—a view that also opens on a Buffalo victory over New England that will end the Bills' perfect record after 10 consecutive defeats.

Here are all the picks, noting that last week's record was a best-of-the-season 9-4:

Baltimore 24, Oakland 17—The AFC West leading Raiders lead the league in scoring and Daryle Lamonica leads the league in attempting to score via the bomb. The Colts' zone defense, however, knows how to de-fuse that type attack. Baltimore did just that in last year's AFC championship.

Miami 31, Chicago 20—There doesn't seem to be any stopping the Dolphins with the best record in the NFL, a seven-game winning streak and all those weapons—Bob Griese, Paul Warfield, Larry Csonka, Jim Kiick. Monday night TV, ABC, 9 p.m., EST.

Minnesota 14, Atlanta 10—Former Minnesota Coach Norm Van Brocklin returns to the land of the frigid north with his Falcons and the NFC Central leading Vikings should be ready for a cool reception with their awesome defense.

Washington 24, Philadelphia 21—The Redskins' Over-The-Hill Gang is 1-3-1 in last five games and Eagles' Beardless Wonders are 3-1-1.

San Francisco 27, New York Jets 24—Assuming John Brodie stays mostly on the ground with AFC West contending 49ers and Joe Namath stays mostly on the sidelines, Jets' defenses confusing passers.

Pittsburgh 34, Denver 14—Terry Bradshaw getting better every week; Broncos getting weaker every week.

Cleveland 23, Houston 14—Leroy Kelly gallops through Oilers for another 100-yard day as Browns remain in AFC Central race with Steelers.

Green Bay 21, New Orleans 17—John Brockington will do for the Packers against the Saints what Kelly does for the Browns.

New York Giants 28, St. Louis 17—Fran Tarkenton passing extremely well. Cardinals playing poorly.

Cincinnati 28, San Diego 24—Bengals playing effectively since Virgil Carter's return. Chargers may be scrambled with Sid Gillman's resignation.

Buffalo 33, New England 30—The Patriots just squeezed by the last time they met, but it's on Buffalo's home grounds this time.

Hauck, the area Class AAA coach of the year, guided Mount Healthy to an 8-0-1 record.

Gregg swept the Class AA honors in the district, directing Dayton Jefferson to a 10-0 season and a sixth straight Dayton Suburban League title.

Peirano, selected the district Class A mentor of the year, led Southeastern to an 8-1 record and a share of the Darby Valley League championship with Plain City Alder.

Gordon Bell, whose elusive running fired Troy to a 10-0 campaign, earned Class AAA Southwestern back of the year honors in balloting by a panel of area sports writers and broadcasters.

Jim Kelly, an end who caught a school record 49 passes for Cincinnati Moeller this fall, was the No. 1 Class AAA lineman in the district.

Los Angeles Lakers

Whip Seattle, 139-115

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers, boasting a 12-game winning streak, are threatening to break open the Pacific Division race in the National Basketball Association.

The Lakers, in setting a team record for consecutive victories, whipped the Seattle SuperSonics 139-115 Thursday night to open a 4½ game lead over the Golden State Warriors, who bowed to the Philadelphia 76ers 112-111. Los Angeles' won-lost mark is 18-3.

In the only other game, the Phoenix Suns turned back the Detroit Pistons 122-113.

Covington took the back honors and Doug Crumm of Lockland was the leading lineman.

That's also where you left your keys.

Your car is gone. And you're left with an empty parking space. And an empty feeling in your stomach. It happens thousands of times a day. Last year over 900,000 cars were stolen. More than half were stolen by kids under 18. And too many people made the thefts easy by leaving their keys in the ignition. This problem is growing every year. We, as new car dealers, are concerned about the loss of property. And we are even more concerned about the kids who take a car. Just for the fun of it.

So we are asking your help. Please remember—take your keys when you leave your car. If your keys aren't there, it's far more likely that your car will be.

ANOTHER FIRST — The Boeing 747F, a giant straight-in-loading cargo freighter, was rolled out of the Everett, Wash., plant and a demonstration was given to press and airline company officials. The first model 747F belongs to Lufthansa German airlines and is scheduled to start transatlantic service next spring.

National Cemetery Space Shortage Critical Soon?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only about 9,000 of the more than 55,500 Vietnam war dead have been buried in national cemeteries. Army officials say this is because most families of war dead prefer to bury them in hometown cemeteries, with the government defraying much of the cost. Although national cemeteries are gradually running out of space, there still is room for the Vietnam dead. There were more than 244,000 unfilled gravesites as of the end of September. As a result, 48 of the 98 additional cemeteries run by the Army and the Interior Department have been virtually closed and another six will be filled up within five years. More than 1.2 million gravesites are occupied. The Army said it has no estimate when all the unfilled grave spaces will be gone. But the record showing more than 113,000 burials since 1966 suggests it may take only another 10 years. What then? Congressmen have filed between 30 and 40 bills calling for expansion of the national cemetery system, which grew out of the Civil War. But these bills appear to have little chance, according to a key staff specialist on the House Veterans Committee. He told a reporter, "We can't build cemeteries in everybody's backyard."

More Army Units Set Withdrawal From Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the cutback of 13 more Army units with a total strength of 3,233 troops in a continued pre-Christmas speedup of withdrawals from Vietnam. The units included another battalion of the 101st Airborne Division, the last remaining combat division in Vietnam, and nine helicopter and fixed-wing aviation companies. About 100 helicopters are involved in the cutback. The cuts are part of President Nixon's latest directive to pare troop strength in Vietnam to 139,000 by the end of January. Present strength in Vietnam is about 180,000.

(Continued from Page 1) rections officers broke up a rebellion at Attica State Prison in upstate New York with gunfire and tear gas. The Rahway hostages included U. Samuel Vukcevic, the prison superintendent. He was treated at Rahway Hospital for cuts, apparently caused by stab wounds, and injuries to the pelvis and spine. Prisoners contended that Vukcevic, 43, was stabbed by a prison guard who pulled a switchblade knife when fighting began Wednesday night. The prisoners released a statement purportedly signed by the superintendent in which he said the inmates did not harm him and sought medical attention for him. Two of the guards held hostage were hospitalized with injuries that included a possible fractured arm to one. Authorities said the injuries were not serious. The prisoners originally took seven men hostage. One was released Wednesday, one Thursday afternoon, a third before newsmen were permitted to enter the prison, and the remaining four just before the meeting with newsmen ended. The unwarmed, X-shaped prison houses 1,143 inmates, 75 percent of them black, in its four wings. The rebellious prisoners seized control of two wings after a movie in the prison auditorium.

Two Hunters Injured On Thanksgiving

Two hunting accidents Thanksgiving were investigated by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department. William Hill, 17, 145 Highland Ave., was shot in the back, buttocks, and both legs, 12:30 p.m. Thursday. He was transferred to University Hospital, Columbus, for treatment. Hill was hunting with Joe Moore, 39, 136 Rosewood Ave., and his son, Gary Moore, 15, and Richard Moore, 14. According to Moore, a rabbit and pheasant flushed at the same time. Both Moore boys shot at the game, and some buckshot struck a rock, bouncing into Hill. Douglas Toole, 29, Route 2, Ashville, was treated for buckshot wounds of both legs and his left thigh while hunting with his brother-in-law, Jack Costlow, 17, Ashville, 11 a.m. Thursday. According to the report, Toole was standing on top a hill when a rabbit ran towards him, drawing Costlow's fire.

They did say that a man using sports parachute in a free fall could easily have been missed. Officials refused to say what type of parachutes were found in the plane after it landed at Reno. The hijacker confined Scott, flight officers William Rataczak and H. E. Anderson and stewardess Tina Mucklow in the cockpit after the 727 reached flight altitude on leaving Seattle. He remained alone in the passenger compartment, where the temperature dropped to 7 degrees below zero with the rear entry door open. His last communication with the crew came shortly after 8 p.m. Wednesday and he is believed to have bailed out of the aircraft at about 8:13 p.m., the FBI said. That would have been 36 minutes after liftoff at Seattle. The Clark County sheriff's office said that if the hijacker had indeed bailed out at 8:13 p.m. he would have landed between the two hamlets of View and Ariel, Wash. The four crew members were flown to their homes in the Minneapolis area and were ordered to make no public statements until a debriefing session with the FBI and Federal Aviation Administration officials.

Pakistan Claims India Continues Border Invasion

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Pakistani army claimed today it has halted Indian troops it says have been advancing on five fronts into East Pakistan. At the same time, President Agha Mohammed Yahya Khan acknowledged the existence of political unrest in West Pakistan by banning the National Awami party. He accused it of "trying to foment revolt in West Pakistan," Radio Pakistan reported. A dispatch from Dacca said an army spokesman reported that forces repulsed Indian attacks in border areas at Jessore, Benapole, Comilla, Chittagong and Sylhet. Dacca is the capital of East Pakistan province. He said the Indians were "badly mauled," suffering more than 330 men killed—including some 200 in Comilla alone—and losing a huge quantity of arms and ammunition. Indian officials here have consistently denied that any government troops are fighting in East Pakistan on a sustained basis. In the Rajshahi district at Sardah, Indian troops have been seen digging trenches and laying antipersonnel and antitank mines, the Pakistani spokesman said, adding that more reinforcements are being brought in to be deployed on the borders. In the Sylhet area the Indian attack was launched by the 5th Gurkha Regiment at Jantiapur but was halted Thursday and the area littered with the bodies of Indian soldiers, he said. In the Comilla area, the Pakistani army spokesman said, all Indian maneuvers failed to gain any ground. A major offensive came from the Indian side at Hilli in East Pakistan's northern sector but the Indians were "dislodged from the area" where they had earlier gained a small portion of territory. The battle at Hilli had been raging during the night and continued through the early hours of the day, the army source said.

Stock Prices Rebound

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices shot ahead today on a broad front as trading resumed after the Thanksgiving holiday. Volume was light. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 11.31 at 809.94. Advances on the New York Stock Exchange led declines by more than 2 to 1. Analysts attributed the sharp rise to bargain-hunting in the wake of the market's recent slide and to a news report that the government's leading economic indicators rose 1.2 percent in October after a 0.2 percent increase in September. Trading was slow because many investors were taking a long weekend after the Thanksgiving holiday, analysts said. Gains ran through motors, rubber issues, mail-order and retail, electronics, airlines, tobaccos, drugs and glamour stocks.

Open Car Door Causes Mishap

National Cemetery Space Shortage Critical Soon?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only about 9,000 of the more than 55,500 Vietnam war dead have been buried in national cemeteries.

Army officials say this is because most families of war dead prefer to bury them in hometown cemeteries, with the government defraying much of the cost.

Although national cemeteries are gradually running out of space, there still is room for the Vietnam dead. There were more than 244,000 unfilled gravesites as of the end of September.

Still, there are an estimated 28.5 million surviving veterans of this country's wars and peace time service. All who were discharged honorably are technically eligible for a final resting place in a national cemetery, as are their wives, husbands and minor children who might die.

But most of these veterans will have to be buried in private cemeteries, where part of the expense is borne by the government under allowances totaling up to $500.

While the nation's veteran population has grown because of the Korean and Vietnam wars, the government hasn't authorized a new national cemetery in more than 20 years.

As a result, 48 of the 98 additional cemeteries run by the Army and the Interior Department have been virtually closed and another six will be filled up within five years. More than 1.2 million gravesites are occupied.

The Army said it has no estimate when all the unfilled grave spaces will be gone. But the record showing more than 113,000 burials since 1966 suggests it may take only another 10 years.

What then? Congressmen have filed between 30 and 40 bills calling for expansion of the national cemetery system, which grew out of the Civil War.

But these bills appear to have little chance, according to a key staff specialist on the House Veterans Committee. He told a reporter, "We can't build cemeteries in everybody's backyard."

More Army Units Set Withdrawal From Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today the cutoff of 13 more Army units with a total strength of 3,233 troops in a continued pre-Christmas speedup of withdrawals from Vietnam.

The units included another battalion of the 101st Airborne Division, the last remaining combat division in Vietnam, and nine helicopter and fixed-wing aviation companies.

About 100 helicopters are involved in the cutoff.

The cuts are part of President Nixon's latest directive to pare troop strength in Vietnam to 139,000 by the end of January.

Present strength in Vietnam is about 180,000.
